

CLINICAL LEADERSHIP WORKSHOP WITH PAUL LEVY

Fri 26th February at 10am - Building DD, REACH Building - Deakin University

Deakin Medical School and the Master of Clinical Leadership program would like to invite you to a special one day Leadership Development workshop featuring Paul Levy, the Faculty of Health's current Thinker in Residence.

Paul is an internationally known author, speaker, and corporate advisor who has served as President and Chief Executive Officer of one of the world's best known hospitals, the Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center in Boston (from January 2002 to January 2011).

Paul has been a strong advocate for quality and safety in healthcare and has been at the forefront of the social media revolution, in 2009 engaging hospital staff in crowdsourcing ideas to save money during a financial crisis and thereby avoiding hundreds of layoffs.

Paul writes widely in a variety of fields and has published two books, Goal Play! Leadership Lessons from the Soccer Field and How a Blog Held Off the Most Powerful Union in America. He is author of the widely read blog, "Not Running a Hospital," created seven years ago when he was one of very few hospital CEOs to share thoughts publicly about hospitals, medicine, and health care issues.

Paul will present an interactive workshop for staff of the Medical School and other clinicians, with a focus on negotiation skills. The workshop will also include presentations from school staff on their leadership challenges, and discussion about the Schools' Master of Clinical Leadership program.

The workshop will appeal to clinicians of all backgrounds, with an interest in improving their leadership skills and with an interest in learning more about leadership development opportunities. You will be able to meet with School staff and current students about the Master of Clinical Leadership program.
