Message from the Chancellor

On behalf of the Deakin University community, my congratulations to you, your families, and to all who have worked so hard towards achieving the success we now celebrate with you.

Like you, I am a Deakin alumnus, and I believe you will find as I have, that your Deakin qualification will be a valuable asset as you explore the opportunities ahead of you. Your Deakin degree will empower you to search for new opportunities with the confidence you can contribute, with the knowledge you are ready, and the resilience that will enable you to overcome the inevitable challenges and unexpected setbacks.

Your graduation marks the completion of your current academic journey, but it also signals the start of a new phase of your lives and your careers. Deakin is proud to have played its part in providing the skilled graduates who will make meaningful contributions to the world, fostering the creativity and skills which will generate the new ideas and enterprise necessary to face the global challenges of the 21st century.

Mr John Stanhope AM

Be proud of your achievement, you are a Deakin graduate and Deakin graduates are the truest evidence of the quality of the Deakin experience; they are a continued inspiration to Council, to staff, to each other and to future graduates.

I encourage you to keep in touch with your University. You'll find that Deakin's alumni community of over 325,000 graduates will be an invaluable resource for you as you embark on this next stage of your career. I hope you will take advantage of and contribute to this extraordinary community who all began their professional lives at Deakin.

Congratulations and best wishes for the future.

Mr John Stanhope AM
Chancellor

Message from the Vice-Chancellor

My sincere congratulations on your graduation from Deakin University.

Today, alongside family, friends and peers, we acknowledge your efforts, your sacrifices, and your success, and we welcome you to the Deakin alumni community. We should never underestimate the importance of a university journey, and the serious achievement of a student's graduation.

I hope you have enjoyed your time at Deakin, met and collaborated with talented and passionate people, made friends, been challenged, formed new perspectives and knowledge, and developed new skills. A Deakin education is known for being innovative and inclusive and we want you to take these qualities into the world. The years ahead will require an open, flexible mind that can respond to change, and find and create opportunities.

We look forward to seeing where your Deakin degree takes you. Your learning did not begin with our University, and it does not end with your graduation. I urge you to continue to be curious and to seek solutions. It is this questing for greater expertise and deeper understandings that will shape the future, along with the qualities and values that Deakin holds dear: integrity, bravery, inclusivity, diversity, community responsibility and social justice.

Professor Iain Martin

Foster your ambition; have confidence in your talents and abilities and revel in each new experience.

Congratulations to each of you and to your families. I wish you well in your future endeavours, and I hope that one day, your career journey brings you back to Deakin as continuing students, as colleagues, as mentors, as supporters and as friends.

Professor Iain Martin
Vice-Chancellor and President

Welcome to Deakin University Graduations

Welcome!

We would like to warmly welcome you to Deakin University's graduation ceremony. This program lists every student graduating, including those not in attendance and graduating in absentia. The graduation ceremony will run for approximately 90 minutes and ushers are available at the venue doors to provide information and assistance. All guests should be seated 15 minutes before the ceremony start time. Please ensure your mobile phone is switched off prior to entering the venue and that you familiarise yourself with the emergency evacuation procedures, located at the back of this program. We hope you enjoy the ceremony.

The Graduation Ceremony

'Kim barne barre Wadawurrung Dja' Welcome to Wadawurrung Country

Deakin University would like to acknowledge the Wadawurrung People, the traditional custodians of the land and the Wathaurong community where this graduation ceremony is taking place. We pay our respects for their continued care of the land and further extend that respect to elders past and present.

Order of Ceremony

Processional music heralds the arrival of the Academic Procession for the graduation ceremony.

At the commencement of this music, graduands and guests are asked to stand and remain standing for the National Anthem.

The Master of Ceremonies will open proceedings and the Chancellor (or representative) will deliver the opening address. The Vice-Chancellor (or representative) will then introduce the guest speaker who will deliver the occasional address.

The Chancellor (or representative) will then make a formal declaration conferring the awards of the University on the graduates, both present and in absentia, and will invite graduates to proceed to the stage according to the order published in the program.

A Faculty Executive Dean (or representative) will read out the names of graduates being presented to the Chancellor (or representative).

At the conclusion of the presentation of the graduates, a representative of the graduating students will deliver a brief response.

The Vice-Chancellor (or representative) will deliver the closing address. Following the closing address, there will be a musical performance.

At the conclusion of the ceremony guests are requested to stand while the stage party and graduates leave the hall.

Refreshments will then be served in the marquee in the John Hay Courtyard.

The University Mace

Maces were originally medieval weapons carried by bodyguards to kings and sergeants-at-arms. Much later, the mace became of ceremonial rather than practical significance and organisations such as civic corporations and universities adopted the mace as a symbol of the rule of legal authority.

The University's mace is displayed at meetings of the University Council and on such ceremonial occasions as conferring ceremonies. The bearer of the mace, in academic processions, 'guards' the Chancellor. Deakin's mace was presented to the University by Mr Donald Thomson, Sir Wilfred Brookes and Mr Norman Stephen (Alcoa Australia).

The Academic Procession

In academic processions, the order of precedence on entry is from junior to most senior. The Chancellor, therefore, is the last member of the procession, followed by the mace-bearer. The Deakin Academic Procession and stage party usually consists of:

Academic Dress

Academic dress is an important reminder of the long history of universities in western civilisation. The three main elements of academic dress are the gown, the hood and the head-dress, which were all once articles of everyday outer dress. Both gowns and hoods, when in common use, were often lined and this lining was decorative, as well as practical. In medieval times, the higher the rank of the wearer, the more sumptuous the gown.

In universities there is still a difference in the apparel of scholars of various ranks reflecting the origins of the academic dress. Today's academic head-dress evolved from various hats and bonnets of earlier times. Deakin University's academic dress, like that of most Australian universities, derives from dress worn at the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge.

Deakin University Ceremonial Dress

The Performers

Deakin's graduation ceremonies include a number of live musical performances, including the National Anthem and a musical arrangement at the conclusion of the ceremony. These are the biographies of the artists who perform at the ceremonies. Performers may vary between ceremonies.

Michael Cristiano

Michael Cristiano is one of Australia's most highly acclaimed performers, composers and record producers. As a producer, his name can be found on numerous multi-platinum selling albums by such artists as The Seekers, Judith Durham, Silverchair, Andre Rieu, Mirusia and Gene Pitney amongst many other big names. As a performer, he is renowned for his on-stage presence, unique, soulful voice and virtuoso guitar skills that continue to wow audiences worldwide. He is one of the country's most respected musicians and composers and has taken home many prestigious music awards. In 2019, The Seekers founding members Athol Guy, Keith Potger and Bruce Woodley joined Michael at his Soundplant recording studio to revisit songs they'd sung in earlier years, and a few they wish they'd sung. The resulting album "Back To Our Roots" was released to rave reviews and "The Original Seekers" (as they were now known) embarked on a sell-out national tour. With a string of ARIA Number one albums to his production portfolio and a new solo album in the works, he continues to be one of the brightest and dynamic stars on the Australian music scene, dedicating his time and unique skills to both his own projects and those of emerging artists and established veterans alike.

Ron Murray

Ron Murray is a Wamba Wamba man (Swan Hill area) living at Yapeen, near Castlemaine in central Victoria on Jaara country. He has performed as a didgeridoo soloist widely in Australia and also in New York, Jordan, Canada and New Zealand. Ron has performed for Queen Elizabeth II, Yusuf Islam (Cat Stevens), Sir Bob Geldoff and Muhammed Ali. Musical highlights include performing at the world premiere of American composer Phillip Glass' Voices for Didgeridoo,

Organ and Narrator (2001) with Mark Atkin, Calvin Bowman and Joy Murphy-Wandin at the Lincoln Center Festival, New York. Ron regularly performs as a foundation member of the Deep Listening band, a collaboration of Indigenous and non-Indigenous musicians and artists based on the Indigenous philosophy of Dadirri.

Mary Catanchin

Singer-Guitarist Mary Catanchin is well known throughout Melbourne for her soaring voice and solo acoustic shows. Throughout the past ten years she has forged a solid career performing for corporate clients in venues such as Crown Palladium, The Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre, Federation Square, Etihad Stadium and the Melbourne Cricket Ground. The 2020 and 2021 lockdowns found Mary experimenting with vocal and percussion looping to create lush harmonies and beats on the fly, resulting in a unique layered sound which she now incorporates into her shows. You can find Mary playing weekly at some of Melbourne's busiest public venues in the CBD such as Crown Casino as well as fronting Radio Star, a popular Cover Band playing at Lamby's Geelong and many other Melbourne venues.

Jessica Markovski

Jessica Markovski is a singer/songwriter from Geelong. Her passion for composing and performing is continuously giving her opportunities with her solo career. With her daily compositions taking place, Jessica is currently recording and releasing her original compositions, alongside, is involved in commercial modeling and acting. Praised for her remarkable ability to play numerous instruments and her musicianship, she has established and is consistently greeted with exceptional accolades by world known musicians. Touring Europe and America with 'The Sweethearts', playing at festivals such as Summerfest, Jazz A Vienne, Porretta Soul festival and being invited to play at the Legendary BB King's café in Memphis Tennessee, gives her the honor to achieve even higher musical standards to succeed in the music industry. Jessica is a Deakin University student studying health science, majoring in exercise science and medical biotechnology and continues to engage in the music scene with residencies across Geelong and Melbourne. She aspires to a career in health and science.

Ashleigh Watson

Ashleigh Watson is an independent retro soul singer/songwriter based in Melbourne. Originally from a jazz background, she found her passion for Motown and soul music when she joined all girl soul band 'The Sweethearts' at just 14 years of age performing with them twice at the prestigious Porretta Soul Festival Italy and Montreaux Jazz Festival Switzerland. In 2013, Ashleigh was invited to participate in the distinguished Hollywood Immersive Music

Course in LA working on her original material with numerous hit songwriters. The support she received ignited her passion to expand her craft and in 2015 her first EP 'Lolita' was released gaining international airplay and much critical acclaim. Over the past few years she has also become a recurring session vocalist on The Voice Australia, X-Factor and the upcoming album for musical act, 'Owl Eyes'. Ashleigh has had great success with several of her original songs signing to music libraries across the globe. Most recently, her first single "Little Love" scored a placement on episode one, season two of hit ABC TV show "Harrow".

The University

Alfred Deakin

Deakin University was named in honour of Alfred Deakin (1856–1919), a remarkable Australian statesman, leading figure of the federation movement and three-time Prime Minister of Australia.

Alfred Deakin was a man of broad vision. Praised as a political leader, he was an outstanding orator, accomplished lawyer, a journalist, poet, an intellectual and an idealist motivated by a sense of duty to his country.

The son of English migrants, Alfred Deakin was born and educated in Melbourne, studying law at the University of Melbourne. He embarked upon a career in journalism with The Age and was a prolific reader of literature, philosophy, law and science, earning most of his income as a writer of social and political commentaries.

In 1879, Alfred Deakin launched his political career and became a successful Liberal candidate for the Victorian Parliament. A believer in democratic social reform, he became the acknowledged leader of the Australian Federation movement in Victoria. He was an active campaigner, a delegate at the federal conventions, member of the constitutional drafting committee and colonial representative in London.

Alfred Deakin was Deputy Prime Minister and Attorney-General in Australia's first government and, in 1903, he became Prime Minister. His many achievements include the establishment of the High Court of Australia, the introduction of labour and social reforms, the promulgation of new technologies such as irrigation and wireless telegraphy, support for the exploration of Antarctica and the introduction of financial support for Australian writers.

Alfred Deakin

The values of innovation, leadership, scholarship and reform embodied in Alfred Deakin are also fundamental values of Deakin University.

About Deakin University

Deakin University is one of Australia's most progressive universities, leading in the innovative use of digital technologies and online learning. As a public not-for-profit university, Deakin has achieved a balance of high-quality research with an education experience that is consistently rated as one of the best in the country.

Established with the Deakin University Act of 1974 as Victoria's fourth university and the first in regional Victoria, today it has approximately 60,000 students from across Australia and from more than 130 countries; 20,000 students choose to study online.

Deakin has a student-focused culture with a well-deserved reputation for student satisfaction and for being accessible and flexible, providing opportunities for learners at all stages of their lives and careers.

Deakin is renowned for developing award-winning partnerships with industry, governments, communities, professional associations and other education providers. Building on successes across Australia, Deakin has more than 500 active partnerships in 57 countries supporting education and research collaboration. Deakin's alumni networks also stretch across the globe, with more than 325,000 members.

Building on the University's success

Deakin University's Strategic Plan – Deakin 2030: Ideas to Impact – provides a bold framework, while remaining true to the University's founding goals:

- to develop lasting and mutually beneficial relationships with rural and regional communities, in particular those in Geelong and Western Victoria
- to offer an educational experience that will widen participation and support students from diverse backgrounds

These important aims continue to be a priority for Deakin University. However, in a world that is globally connected and in which information abounds and is more accessible than ever, innovation and excellence will remain defining characteristics that benefit all our students and staff.

At Deakin, we harness the power of ideas to transform the way we live and think. We nurture a rich and complex ideas ecosystem that delivers lasting value for our students and communities.

What makes us Deakin:

- We excel in both education and research
- We value both excellence and equity
- We are leaders in digital capability
- We are agile and responsive to community need
- Indigenous knowledges and ideas inform our future
- We deliver impact locally and globally
- We seek new opportunities that align with our community commitments

For all these reasons, Deakin University occupies an important place in the Australian higher education landscape.

The Deakin Story

1974–1984

Deakin was established by the Victorian Parliament in 1974 as a 'university in the Geelong area'. Deakin began teaching on 1 April 1977.

Deakin University was named after Alfred Deakin, who served as Prime Minister three times between 1903 and 1910 and was a significant figure in the achievement of Australian Federation.

When it was established, Deakin incorporated two existing Geelong-based institutions – the Geelong State College and the Gordon Institute of Technology.

Deakin had approximately 2500 students in its first year (1977), rising to 4800 in 1980.

By 1984, Deakin had consolidated its operations at the Geelong Wairn Ponds Campus.

1990–1991

Deakin's growth outside Geelong began in 1990 when it amalgamated with the Warrnambool Institute of Advanced Education. This continued in 1991 when it amalgamated with Victoria College, which operated from Burwood, Toorak and Clayton.

1993

Deakin was one of the first Australian universities to embrace professional and continuing education to corporate clients, establishing Deakin Australia (now DeakinCo.) in 1993.

1996

In the mid-1970s, the disused woolstores on the waterfront in central Geelong was one site considered and rejected for the proposed university that was to become Deakin. In 1996, this idea came to fruition with the opening of the Geelong Waterfront Campus.

2008

In 2008, the Deakin University School of Medicine opened, becoming Victoria's first rural and regional medical school.

2012

February 2012 saw the first intake of students in the new Bachelor of Vision Science/Master of Optometry degree.

2013–2019

During a period of rapid growth between 2013 and 2019, new buildings and major improvements included:

- the iconic gateway building at the Melbourne Burwood Campus
- Centre for Advanced Design Engineering Training at the Geelong Waurin Ponds Campus
- expansion of student accommodation across all campuses.

2014

In March 2014, the University declared it would be a smoke-free environment.

In May, the $34 million globally unique cutting-edge carbon fibre research and innovation facility, Carbon Nexus, officially opened at the Geelong Waurin Ponds Campus.

In December, Deakin celebrated its 200,000th graduate.

2016

In January 2016, John Stanhope AM assumed the position of Deakin's Chancellor, taking over from David Morgan who served as Chancellor for 10 years.

In April, the Deakin Business School received accreditation by The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business International, the longest serving global accrediting body for business schools in the world.

In August, the Deakin University Community Bank® initiative with Bendigo Bank was launched – the first collaboration of its kind between a university and a financial institution.

Deakin partnered with FutureLearn to offer full degrees online and short free courses through FutureLearn's global platform.

The Deakin Story continued

2017

In 2017 Deakin University and LeMond Composites joined forces in a $58m deal to revolutionise the use of carbon fibre across the world.

Deakin opened two new Institutes: the Institute for Health Transformation and the Deakin Applied Artificial Intelligence Institute.

Also in this year, the expanded TERI-Deakin Nanobiotech Centre was opened by the Prime Minister.

In 2017 Deakin ranked 213 globally by the prestigious Academic Ranking of World universities.

2018

In 2018 Deakin officially launched its Innovation Hub ManuFutures.

Deakin partnered with AusNet Services to establish a 7.25 MW smart microgrid at its Geelong Wauran Ponds campus.

The 2018 Excellence in Research for Australia rankings saw Deakin performing at or above world standard in 100% of its research (up from 90% in 2015).

2019

In March 2019, Deakin celebrated 25 years of engagement in India. Deakin was the first international university to establish an office in India.

In July, Deakin's seventh Vice-Chancellor, Professor Iain Martin begins in the role, taking over from Professor Jane den Hollander AO who served for nine years.

Also in this year, Deakin appointed its inaugural Pro Vice-Chancellor Indigenous Strategy, Professor Mark Rose.

Deakin was awarded an Athena SWAN Bronze Institution Award in recognition of its commitment to advancing the careers of women, trans and gender diverse individuals in STEMM disciplines; in the same year, Deakin received the 'Employer of Choice for Gender Equality' citation for the 13th consecutive year.

2020

In December 2020, the University launched its new ten-year strategic plan, Deakin 2030: Ideas to Impact.

The Hydrogen Training Testbed at the Hycel Technology Hub in Warrnambool was launched.

In March, Deakin launched NIKERI – the National Indigenous Knowledges Education Research Innovation Institute. The following year, the Vice-Chancellor's Indigenous Advisory Council was established.

2021

In 2021, Deakin established ten platforms for discovery and innovation, funded by the Victorian Higher Education State Investment Fund, the Commonwealth Government, Deakin and its partners.

In April, Deakin launched the Renewable Energy Microgrid at the Waurnd Ponds Campus, the largest ever solar farm on an Australian university, which will help to achieve Deakin's goal of being carbon neutral by 2025 and carbon negative by 2030.

Between 2019 and 2021, significant infrastructure developments included:

- Nyaal at Waurnd Ponds, an immersive teaching facility, and
- the new Law Building at Burwood.

The Campuses

Deakin is a large university with all the accompanying resources and infrastructure, but its campuses are small enough to retain their own character and sense of community. Each of our campuses offers a unique atmosphere – from the inspiring architecture and bayside appeal of our Geelong Waterfront Campus, to the cafe culture of our Melbourne Burwood Campus, the spectacular coastal location at our Warrnambool Campus or the mix of activity and open space at our Geelong Waurin Ponds Campus.

Melbourne Burwood Campus

This thriving campus is Deakin's largest. Located 15km from the Melbourne CBD, it boasts open and inviting spaces for socialising and studying, innovative architecture and wireless locations. An ambitious building program has resulted in a new complex of spacious modern buildings, including the gateway building situated on Burwood Highway and the state-of-the-art Indoor Exercise and Sport Science Teaching Building, completed in 2019. Refurbishment of older buildings, a library extension, expansion of residential accommodation, a 250-seat lecture theatre and a large landscaped central courtyard have all created a campus that is well-resourced and well-designed. The campus is home to the Deakin University Art Gallery and the Deakin Motion.Lab, a state-of-the-art motion capture facility that produces 3D animation and special effects, similar to those used in films such as Avatar and The Lord of the Rings.

Geelong Waurin Ponds Campus

Deakin's Geelong Waurin Ponds Campus is located 8km from the centre of the historic port city of Geelong, which is 72km south-west of Melbourne. Geelong is Victoria's largest regional city with a population close to 225,000.

Set among extensive landscaped grounds, the Geelong Waurin Ponds Campus boasts hectares of native trees, grassy lawns, lakes and avenues. There are many specialist facilities at this campus, including an outstandingly resourced library, audiovisual production studios, research laboratories and an extensive computer centre. The Waurin Ponds Estate provides first-class conference and convention facilities.

Also located at the Geelong Waurin Ponds Campus is the Geelong Future Economy Precinct. The Precinct draws on over 15 years of investment in developing the research expertise and facilities in areas such as carbon and ultra-fine fibre, nanotechnology and composite materials, as well as robotics, pattern recognition and data analytics. Some of Australia's, and the world's, leading advanced manufacturers now call the Precinct home.

Geelong Waterfront Campus

The Geelong Waterfront Campus is Deakin's newest campus, located on the beautiful foreshore of Corio Bay in the central business district of Geelong. Originally built in 1893, the historic woolstore building has undergone extensive redevelopment to create a modern and impressive campus centre.

The centrepiece of the campus is Costa Hall, a concert hall of international standard, where a number of university ceremonies, cultural performances and community functions take place, including Deakin's graduation ceremonies.

Also located at this campus is the refurbished Sally Walker Building, which houses the Alfred Deakin Prime Ministerial Library and the Alfred Deakin Research Institute. The Alfred Deakin Research Institute is an interdisciplinary teaching and research centre covering political science, public policy and governance, international relations, globalisation, journalism and communications.

Warrnambool Campus

Warrnambool is the commercial, cultural and educational heart of south-west Victoria. A premier tourist destination, it boasts stunning coastlines, renowned surf beaches and is the state's foremost site for whale watching.

Located 262km from Melbourne, the campus is set on 114 sprawling hectares on the banks of the picturesque Hopkins River. Our lecturers, students and staff at the Warrnambool Campus form a real community, where communication is open and informal.

Campus facilities include a comprehensive library, excellent teaching and learning spaces, a cafe, gymnasium, bookshop and golf course. Located just 5km from the centre of Warrnambool, the campus ensures that Deakin contributes to the vitality of the local community in the tradition of many university cities.

NIKERI Institute

Deakin University is proud to have the largest number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students of any Victorian university.

The National Indigenous Knowledges Education Research and Innovation (NIKERI) Institute commenced in 1991 and offers programs that are structured around off-campus community-based delivery, supported by on-campus intensive study blocks and complemented by local tutors in their home communities.

This approach to course delivery promotes access and equity for Indigenous Australian students. Students from all areas of the country – rural, remote and metropolitan, and across all age ranges, particularly mature age – are able to undertake studies without compromising their family and community obligations.

In November 2019, the Institute won the prestigious Dreamtime Education Award for 'Education Institute of the Year'.

Doctor of Philosophy – PhD

Regev Ben Bar

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Information, Transparency and Efficiency in Markets.’

Summary

This thesis applies experimental and meta-analysis methods to assess how information and transparency impact efficiency. It focuses on financial asset markets and bilateral bargaining markets. The findings suggest that additional information can improve market efficiency, dependent on the type of information provided, and the market settings it is provided at.

Executive Supervisor:

Professor Chris Doucouliagos

Co-supervisor:

Dr Aaron Nicholas

Department:

Economics

Xiaoran Cao

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Essays on Contemporary Agency-based Auditing Research: Partner and Firm-level Evidence.’

Summary

This thesis consists of three empirical studies on contemporary issues in auditing research. The aim of the thesis is to study whether and how audit partners’ and audit firms’ characteristics influence the client firms’ financial reporting quality, auditor choice and investment efficiency, following the theoretical framework of the principal-agent theory.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Simon Fung

Department:

Accounting

Abdul Haseeb Chaudhary

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Norms as Antecedents of Littering Behaviour in a Developing Country.’

Summary

This thesis investigated anti-littering behavioral intentions using a normative perspective in a developing country. The influence of social norms on anti-littering personal norms was enhanced using people’s place attachment and ethical positions. The findings showed that people with high place attachment, high idealistic, and low relativistic values developed stronger anti-littering personal norms, which positively influenced their anti-littering intentions.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Michael Polonsky

Department:

Marketing

Sidharth Murthy

Whose thesis is entitled:

'CEO Psychological Traits and Corporate Outcomes.'

Summary

This study investigates the relation between the underlying motivation of CEOs (regulatory focus) and its relation to various corporate outcomes. CEO promotion focus results in higher number of labour lawsuits and earnings forecasts due to their gains and advancement orientation. CEO prevention focus results in lower earnings forecasts because they fulfil basic duties and obligations.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Ferdinand Gul

Department:

Accounting

Panagiotis Sotirakopoulos

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Essays on Labour Market Behaviour and Well-Being.'

Summary

This thesis consists of three chapters which empirically show that macro-shocks during early adulthood positively predict future entrepreneurship, the national COVID-19 lockdown had a negative effect on the Australian labour market while the economy recovered to a certain degree after the lockdown, and that minimum wage increases improve overall health and subjective well-being.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Aydogan Ulker

Department:

Economics

Emma Prue Winston

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Transformative Value Outcomes of Tailored Arts Services.'

Summary

This thesis explores customer resource enhancement and transformative value outcomes (TVOs) from tailored arts services. The study findings suggest tailored arts experiences lead to enhancement of customer individual resources and TVOs in the form of well-being and use/sharing of individual resources after a service experience.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Ahmed Ferdous

Department:

Marketing

Ching Hin Wong

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Essays on Target-Date Funds.'

Summary

The first chapter of this study shows why target-date funds (TDFs) have performed better in the COVID-19 selloff than in the 2008 selloff. The second chapter examines the relationship between managerial commitment and the heterogeneity in TDFs. The third chapter summarises the recent development of the Australian lifecycle fund market.

Alfred Deakin Professor

Council established the title of Alfred Deakin Professor to recognise members of Deakin University professoriate who have made a sustained, high level contribution to research at Deakin. The title is the highest honour the University can bestow on a member of academic staff.

The title of Alfred Deakin Professor will be conferred upon Professor Liz Johnson in recognition of her leadership in education and her very significant and sustained contribution to the success of the University.

Professor Liz Johnson, Deputy Vice-Chancellor Academic

Professor Liz Johnson leads Deakin's ambitious Education and Employability strategy, including the drive to premium digital learning and outstanding student experience. Professor Johnson's portfolio includes Indigenous Strategy, Academic Governance and Standards, Graduate Employment, Faculty Services, Student Services, the Deakin Library, Deakin Learning Futures, the Dean of Students, and the Centre for Research in Assessment and Digital Learning (CRADLE).

As Deputy Vice-Chancellor Education from 2019-2021, Professor Johnson steered teaching and learning at Deakin through the disruption of the COVID pandemic, building from extensive projects on Deakin's online learning environment, teaching innovation and course development and staff capability for learning and teaching. During this period, she sponsored re-imagining and restructure of Deakin's professional services for students and Faculties, substantive renewal of teaching and learning design and an institution-wide transformation to online assessment.

Professor Johnson has led whole-of-institution curriculum reform projects at Deakin University as Pro-Vice-Chancellor Teaching and Learning (2014–2018) and previously at La Trobe University.

She has led nationally funded projects, including Successful WIL in Science, on work-integrated learning in science faculties, funded by the Office of the Chief Scientist of Australia and the Department of Education and Training.

She was awarded an OLT National Teaching Fellowship in 2012 and worked with the Australian Council of Deans of Science to establish the ACDS Teaching and Learning Centre and as its inaugural Director.

Professor Johnson trained as a plant biochemist and taught university biochemistry for over 30 years. In 2006 she was awarded citations for outstanding contributions to teaching and learning from La Trobe University and from the Carrick Institute.

In recognition of her ongoing contributions to biochemistry education, in 2007 she received the prestigious Invitrogen Education award from the Australian Society for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology (ASBMB), and the 2007 Vice-Chancellor's award for teaching from La Trobe University.

She now researches and publishes in areas associated with curriculum renewal, work-integrated learning and digital credentialing.

Deakin Hallmark: Global Citizenship

Thuy Linh Cao

The Global Citizenship Award recognises the achievement of students who have demonstrated outstanding global citizenship through engagement in a range of activities that develop and demonstrate their interpersonal and intercultural capability across variable cultural contexts and global environments. This award recognises the importance of intercultural understanding and respect to the success of Graduates, organisations and communities.

Aya Mohamed Zaki Ismail

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Extraction of (Semi-)Formal Notations from Natural Language Requirements.’

Summary

This research proposes an automatic formalisation approach that automatically converts NL-requirements into multiple formal notations. The approach can process input requirements with a wide range of requirement formats compared to existing approaches by extracting the key requirements properties (without constraints on their structure) instead of relying on the semantics of defined templates.

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Emergency Message Dissemination in Vehicular Adhoc Networks.’

Summary

This thesis is the contribution of timely delivery of emergency message dissemination in vehicular ad-hoc networks. It has provided the new route-based scheme by cluster heads and roadside units. This increases the information coverage and helps to provide prior road events to the mobile nodes. This research work has an impact to solve various critical problems of societal benefits.

Prizes and Awards

Alfred Deakin Professor

Council established the title of Alfred Deakin Professor to recognise members of Deakin University professoriate who have made a sustained, high level contribution to research at Deakin. The title is the highest honour the University can bestow on a member of academic staff.

The title of Alfred Deakin Professor will be conferred upon Professor Alexander Newman for an outstanding and sustained contribution to furthering the University's research and scholarship in the field of business and management.

Professor Alexander Newman

Alex Newman is one of Australia's leading researchers in management and is presently Head of the Department of Management at Deakin Business School. Since obtaining his PhD in 2010 Alex has published over 100 refereed articles in leading international journals. His work has attracted over 12,000 citations with an h-index of over 60.

In recognition of his distinguished publishing record Alex was highlighted by Stanford researchers as being in the top 1% of management scholars in the years 2020 and 2021.

He was also recognised by the Australian Research Magazine as the field leader in the human resources and organizations discipline in 2021, and one of only 40 rising stars across the whole of Australian academia in 2019 and 2021.

His works spans the fields of organizational psychology, vocational psychology, human resource management, leadership, entrepreneurship and business ethics. He has published in top management journals including The Leadership Quarterly, Journal of Applied Psychology, Journal of Organizational Behavior, Journal of Vocational Behavior, Entrepreneurship Theory & Practice and Human Resource Management.

Alex's work has had significant social impact. In 2019 he established the Deakin Centre for Refugee Employment, Advocacy, Training and Education (CREATE). CREATE is a research centre that undertakes research to improve understanding of how to support people from a refugee background to access education and training, and obtain employment. Through his work at CREATE, Alex has been part of a team that designed career clinics for people from a refugee background which support over 200 people per year to seek employment.

His work is supported by philanthropic grants, industry funding and research funding from other sources such as the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, the National Careers Institute and the Australian Research Council.

Over the last 18 months, Alex's work at CREATE has resulted in eight major national and international awards. These include an Australian Financial Review Higher Education Award in the equity and opportunity category, an AACSB Innovations that Inspire Award, a PIEOneer International Education Award for Championing Diversity, an Australian Business Dean's Council Research Excellence Award, an Emerald Real Impact Award, a Green Gown Award in the benefitting society category and a Victorian Multicultural Award for Excellence in the community innovation category.

Alex has a strong track of service to the academic community. He was elected as Representative at Large of the Careers Division of the Academy of Management in 2021 for a three year period, and was Chair of the Global Committee of the Organizational Behavior Division from 2018 to 2021. He was also Chair of the International Network of the Australian Business Deans Council from 2018–2021. He has also been appointed to editorial roles at several leading journals. In recognition of his academic leadership, in 2020 Alex was shortlisted as a finalist in the Australian Financial Review Higher Education Award 'emerging leader' category.

Deakin Award: Global Citizenship

Jay De Graaff

The Global Citizenship Award recognises the achievement of students who have demonstrated outstanding global citizenship through engagement in a range of activities that develop and demonstrate their interpersonal and intercultural capability across variable cultural contexts and global environments. This award recognises the importance of intercultural understanding and respect to the success of graduates, organisations and communities.

Faculty of Science, Engineering and Built Environment

Wednesday 19 October 11am

Wednesday 19 October 11am

Order of Proceedings

The procession will enter at 11am.

Guests are asked to stand as the procession enters and to remain standing until the conclusion of the National Anthem.

Doctoral Degrees

Doctor of Philosophy – PhD

Moloud Abdar

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Uncertainty Quantification for Deep Learning-Based Medical Decision Making.’

Summary

This thesis concentrates on uncertainty quantification for deep learning-based medical decision making. The research mainly develops new deep learning models and validated on different medical datasets.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Saeid Nahavandi

Institute:

Intelligent Systems Research and Innovation

Amirhossein Asfia

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Development of a 3D Printed Head and Neck Immobilisation Orthotic.’

Summary

This thesis has proposed a novel workflow for manufacturing immobilisation face masks for radiation therapy. Two masks were printed. One with nose bridge and the other one without nose bridge. The masks were tested and compared. Results confirmed the feasibility of the mask with nose bridge.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Bernard Rolfe

School:

Engineering

Mina Bayattork

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Creating Biomimetic 3D Silk-Bioglass Scaffold.’

Summary

This study developed strategies to overcome the current challenges in making silk fibroin hydrogel, including preservation the fibrous structure during drying, slow gelation, lack of bioactivity, insufficient mechanical properties and poor printability. This approach can benefit the application of silk fibroin hydrogel for different biomedical application.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Jingliang Li

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Nandini Bhattacharya

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Development of Graphene Based Nanocarrier System for Efficient Delivery of Plant Growth Regulators.’

Summary

This study investigated the development of a nanocarrier system using reduced graphene oxide for the delivery of plant growth regulators into plants. This research assessed the properties of the nanocarrier. The findings point towards a promising new platform for addressing problems in the conventional modes of agrochemical application to crops.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor David Cahill

School:

Life and Environmental Sciences

Devangana Bhuyan

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Development of Novel Formulation for Preservation of Perishable Foods.'

Summary

This thesis has been submitted for the fulfilment of my doctoral research titled 'Development of novel formulation for the preservation of perishable foods'. The project aimed at exploring the potential of sustainable biomaterials like silk proteins and curcumin to make a non-toxic formulation for future food preservation application.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Wren Greene

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Rugang Chai

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Ductile Fracture of Sheet Metal Considering Nonlinear Strain Paths.'

Summary

This thesis aims to develop a new and robust approach for failure prediction to accommodate non-linear strain paths during forming. The role of a damage indicator on fracture prediction under the bilinear strain paths is also discussed.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Jeong Yoon

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Jiahui Chen

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Study on Preparation and Properties of Energy Conversion Fibre.'

Summary

This study investigated the twisted and coiled fiber-based energy converting materials which can respond to external thermal and moisture stimuli and convert them to mechanical movement. The effects of different parameters on the obtained energy conversion properties and the methods of improvement were explored. The potential applications of developed actuators in smart textiles were demonstrated.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Esfandiar Pakdel

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Pauline Emillienne Desroches

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Advanced Electrodes Utilising Lubricin-Conductive Polymers Composites.'

Summary

This study investigated the development of advanced electrodes utilising lubricin and conductive polymer composites. It started with the fabrication of novel antifouling and electroactive coatings, made of lubricin and polypyrrole, showing mitigation of the electrochemical impedance instabilities in bionic electrodes exposed to fouling solution. Further studies explored a novel fabrication route for nanometers-thin, transparent and nanocomposite conductive polymer films using a surface grafted dopant templating approach.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Wren Greene

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Xiang Ding

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Doping Effect of Inorganic Materials on Polypyrrole-Based Schottky Direct-Current Generators.'

Summary

This thesis aimed to understand whether the mechanical-electrical energy conversion performance can be enhanced by doping different metal oxides. In the meantime, this research demonstrated the effect of water in polypyrrole on the mechano-electrical conversion of polypyrrole-based Schottky direct-current generators for the first time.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Xungai Wang

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Sadegh Ghanei

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Wrinkling Study in Flexible Roll Forming of High Strength Components.'

Summary

This research provides a new understanding of wrinkling initiation in the flexible roll forming process by considering experimental and numerical findings. This study establishes a link between wrinkling initiation and effective geometrical and material parameters. This thesis also proposes a comprehensive criterion to determine the onset of wrinkling.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Matthias Weiss

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Daniel Grasser

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Design Principles for Inserts in Wear Resistant Composites.'

Summary

This study investigated the abrasion wear resistance of composites. Several composite design parameters (insert dimensions) were assessed in context of the size of the processed hard particles. Experimental and numerical methods were used. Particular composite designs fostered a change of the particle flow mechanisms (less severe) and decreased the wear by the order of a magnitude (benefit). Design principles for maximum wear resistance are important for the mining industry.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Michael Pereira

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Salumeh Issazadeh

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Synthesis and Characterisation of High-performance, Fire-retardant Polymer Networks via Ring-opening Polymerisation.'

Summary

This thesis investigates the processability and structure/property relationships of two families of highly aromatic thermosetting resin systems which polymerise via oxazoline and epoxide functional groups. The research is interlinked by a focus on their ring-opening polymerisation mechanisms and fire retardancy.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Russell Varley

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Madeleine Cecilia Johnson

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Sustainable Intensification of Agriculture: Transitioning to a Climate-Smart Agriculture Sector.'

Summary

This research develops a Sustainable Intensification Spatial Decision-Support Tool, which acts as a knowledge repository and portal for the recommendation of sustainable agriculture strategies to support transitioning to a 'climate-smart' farming future. Using farmer typologies and multiple criteria analysis, the tool provides a suitability index, reflecting the results of a scenario-based assessment of the appropriateness of different pathways of implementation.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Robert Faggian

School:

Life and Environmental Sciences

Rishu Kalra

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Secondary Metabolites From Lichens as Potential Cancer Therapeutic Agents.'

Summary

This study explored lichen from various geographical locations for metabolite profiling, with bioactivity-guided isolation and identification of secondary metabolites. Insights were gained into promising drug leads from lichen, as well as the opportunities nanotechnology presents for drug delivery of more specific and less toxic therapeutics.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Xavier Conlan

School:

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Wet-Spinning and Carbonisation of Bicomponent and Non-Circular Polyacrylonitrile-Based Precursors.'

Summary

Carbon fibre traditionally have a circular cross-section, this form of carbon fibre has provided the world with light-weight high-strength composite structures. This thesis has studied alternative microstructures and shapes, such as trilobal, hollow and bicomponent systems, which have the potential to create new families of not only low-cost but also multi-functional composites.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Russell Varley

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Mechanical Characterisation of Australian Heterogeneous Cross-Laminated Timber.'

Summary

This research presents experimental investigations to characterise mechanical properties of heterogeneous Cross-Laminated Timber produced from Australian Radiata Pine. Obtained results were compared against other CLTs and available analytical approaches were examined for their suitability. Research findings should help promoting use of CLT and other mass timber products in construction for a better and sustainable future.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Mahmud Ashraf

School:

Rahul Chandra Mishra

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Studies on Exploring Endophytic Fungal Cell Factories for Antioxidants, Pigmented Bio-actives and Biosynthesised Gold Nanoparticles.'

Summary

This study investigated endophytic fungi as production systems for high-value materials. Some of the fungi investigated exhibited biologically active antioxidant activity, contained red pigments or synthesised gold nanoparticles. The study supports the use of endophytic fungi as potential cell factories for the production of these commercially useful materials.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Colin Barrow

School:

Whose thesis is entitled:

'A Grounded Theory of Design Innovation in Hospital Design.'

Summary

This thesis conceptualises the evolution of hospital building design and identifies and explains the main factors triggering design innovation over the past 100 years. This study informs future innovation in hospital building design by highlighting the strength of different contextual factors and interactions among them triggering design innovation and recommending new research areas.

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Controlling Long Period Stacking Ordered Phases in Magnesium Rare-earth Alloys to Alter Hydrogenation Behaviour.'

Summary

This study tailored long period stacking ordered phases in magnesium rare-earth alloys to investigate the effect of the phase volume fraction on the hydrogenation behaviour of the alloys. It was found that hydrogen absorption kinetics and capacity increased with increasing phase volume fraction, but the increase in hydrogen desorption kinetics did not linearly correlate with increasing phase volume fraction.

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Novel Sizing Agents for Carbon Fibre.'

Summary

This study investigated the synthesis of sizing agents from terpenes, which are used to size functionalised and pristine carbon fibres. The results indicated that these sizing agents and surface modified fibres operates synergistically to significantly improve the interfacial shear strength of the carbon fibre reinforced epoxy resin matrix composites.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Joselito Razal

Institute:

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Fiber-Based Organic Electrochemical Transistors and Their Applications in Sensing.'

Summary

This study investigated the effects of 2D nanomaterials on the morphology, electrical and sensing performances of the fiber-based organic electrochemical transistor (FOECT). The results indicated the 2D nanomaterial mediated nanostructured electrode could greatly improve the device transconductance and provided a new inspiration for building the next-generation sensitive wearable biosensors.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Weiwei Lei

Institute:

Fernando Victor Ramos Saz

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Development of New Plastic Crystal-Based Membrane Materials for Carbon Dioxide Separation.'

Summary

This research targets the development of new plastic crystal-based membrane materials for carbon dioxide separation. It explores different methods for the synthesis of Organic Ionic Plastic Crystal (OIPC)-based composite membranes and studies how the interaction with the polymer support affects the structure and the light gas transport properties.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Jenny Pringle

Institute:

Frontier Materials

Matthew Jordan Russo

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Lubricin (PRG4): A Versatile and Multifunctional Protein for Biomedical Applications.'

Summary

This research investigates the use of lubricin (PRG4), a versatile and multifunctional protein for use in biomedical applications. The primary field of study utilises lubricin as an antifouling coating for point of care based electrochemical biosensing technologies. In addition lubricin was used as a biolubricant at an ocular-contact lens biointerface.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Wren Greene

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Assessing The Shared Responsibility of Reducing Global Environmental Impacts of The Agri-Food Sector.'

Summary

This thesis assessed the shared responsibility of reducing global environmental impacts of the agri-food sector. It linked the environmental impacts of agri-food consumption to the countries of production. It assessed the extent to which consumption of different agri-food commodities influences the environmental limits of their producer countries. The findings informed consumer countries about the opportunities for reducing the global impact of agri-food consumption through co-investments in countries with high potential to increase production and water-use efficiencies.

Whose thesis is entitled:

'A Closed-loop Optogenetic Brain Stimulation Device.'

Summary

This thesis investigated the design of closed-loop optogenetic brain stimulation devices. It emphasised on improving the device features such as closed-loop and untethered operation and miniaturisation. The outcome provided an optogenetic brain stimulation device for small laboratory animals, incorporating aspects of embedded system design, optical electronics, signal processing, and machine learning.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Abbas Kouzani

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Amplification Strategies in Point-of-Care Electrochemical Biosensors.'

Summary

This thesis focused on experimental validation of co-facing gold electrodes, which could determine the concentration and diffusion coefficient of a limiting redox mediator in solutions of unknown viscosity. Based on this electrode system, two novel calibration-free sensors were developed for direct thrombin and factor-Xa inhibitors in point-of-care settings.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Angel Torriero

School:

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Identification and Characterisation of Novel Markers in Neuroendocrine Tumour Cells.'

Summary

This thesis addresses the issues arising from the paucity of biomarkers for the diagnosis of neuroendocrine tumours. The levels of a panel of markers linked to cancer were analysed in patient samples. Specific markers were identified, that have the potential to assist in tumour diagnosis and in monitoring disease progression.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Leigh Ackland

School:

Life and Environmental Sciences

Filip Vukovic

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Atomistic Models of Carbon Fibre Composites and their Interface Properties.'

Summary

This thesis used atomistic computer simulations to elucidate structure-property relationships of the carbon fibre composite interface. Novel models of the carbon fibre surface featuring intrinsic nanoscale rough were developed. These models were used in simulations of the carbon fibre-polymer interface to elucidate the impact of nanoscale roughness on the composite properties, and the interplay between roughness and surface oxidation.

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Towards Sustainable Residential Landscapes in Geelong: A Creole Histography.'

Summary

This historiographical research investigates the sustainability of suburban Djilang and Geelong in different design eras using a 'creole' Australian philosophy and theory of landscape. It found that suburban Djilang was sustainable but suburban Geelong is not. However, with considered design the average suburban block size of 735 m² can be retrofitted to sustainably meet environmental and human needs.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Phillip Roos

School:

Whose thesis is entitled:

'GPS-Behaviour Trackers and Their Ecological Application.'

Summary

This thesis presents interdisciplinary work of developing, implementing and applying a novel on-board behavioural tracking method. It is comprehensive and focussed on developing useful methods and technology and showing how it can be applied for ecological research questions.

Alfred Deakin Professor

Council established the title of Alfred Deakin Professor to recognise members of Deakin University professoriate who have made a sustained, high level contribution to research at Deakin. The title is the highest honour the University can bestow on a member of academic staff.

The title of Alfred Deakin Professor will be conferred upon Professor Kon Mouzakis for an outstanding and sustained contribution to furthering the University's research and scholarship in the field of artificial intelligence and digital technology.

Professor Kon Mouzakis

Professor Kon Mouzakis is a Professor of Software and Technology Innovation at Deakin University. He is a Decision Support and Software Development expert with over 30 years of experience and currently holds the position of Inaugural Co-Director of the Applied Artificial Intelligence Institute (A²I²). In 2018, Kon was appointed as the Director, Australian Research Council, Industrial Transformation Research Hub for Digital Enhanced Living, which is funded jointly by the Australian government and Industry Partners.

Over the last 5 years, Kon has attracted over $15 million in contract R&D and consulting activities. He has developed software solutions and concept demonstrators for a wide range of organisations, including the Alfred Hospital, Dementia Australia, Transport Accident Commission, Cancer Council Australia and The Department of Defence. In collaboration with the Alfred Hospital's Trauma Centre, he developed the Trauma Reception and Resuscitation Decision Support tool. This was a world first development that reduced the number of errors that clinicians made in the first 30 minutes of patient arrival at the Trauma Centre at the Alfred Hospital. Kon is an advisor to the Trauma Centre of the Alfred Hospital in Information Technology Decision Support.

Kon is a tenured senior academic at Deakin University and, prior to this, at Swinburne University of Technology where he taught and researched in the areas of mobile technology, usability of complex systems and interface design. Kon is also acknowledged as the founder of the Industry Based Learning (IBL) Program for IT students at Swinburne University of Technology. During this time, he placed more than 3,000 students in industry to complete an IBL or Internship placement.

Deakin Hallmark: Teamwork Excellence in Environmental Science

Rebecca Kate Morrow

This Deakin Hallmark warrants the achievement of students who have used their outstanding teamwork skills to make a substantial contribution in the field of environmental science. This award recognises the essential role that teamwork plays in the employability of environmental scientists and managers who must work effectively with diverse groups solving complex problems for the benefit of the environment and communities.

Award of Honorary Degree

The honorary degree of Deakin Honorary Doctorate will be conferred upon Ms Carmel Guerra OAM for distinguished service to the Australian community, especially to migrant youth, social inclusion and cultural diversity.

Ms Carmel Guerra OAM

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Ms Carmel Guerra OAM.

Carmina (Carmel) Guerra OAM is the founding Chief Executive Officer of the Centre for Multicultural Youth (CMY), the first and largest organisation in Australia to work exclusively with migrant and refugee young people. Carmel also led the development of the Multicultural Youth Advocacy Network Australia, the national peak body representing the rights and interests of young people from refugee and migrant backgrounds, which she now chairs.

Carmel trained as a youth worker and has qualifications in Public Administration and Human Resources Management. Over a career of 30 years, Carmel has been a committed agent for social change and policy reform, with her work resulting in a national support system for the multicultural young people and families who seek to build a life in Australia.

Carmel has a deep passion for social justice and is highly regarded for her knowledge, expertise and fearless advocacy on multicultural youth issues.

Under Carmel's leadership, CMY grew from a group of youth workers who, through their own lived-experiences growing up in the 70s and 80s, envisioned a society where a person's name, language, colour of skin, or religious beliefs did not determine the course of their life. Today, CMY is recognised both within Australia and internationally as an industry leader on multicultural youth and family issues, which are now at the forefront of national social policy agendas after years of tireless advocacy.

Carmel sits on numerous advisory committees and is currently a member of the Victorian Youth Parole Board. Carmel's services to multicultural youth and their families has been recognised through numerous accolades including: the Medal of the Order of Australia (2016), the Victorian Premier's Award for Community Harmony (2015), the Harvard Non-Profit Fellowship (2015), the Victorian Women's Honour Roll (2005), and the Centenary Medal (2005). Carmel has spoken on multicultural youth issues at international forums such as the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees in Geneva and the Commonwealth Youth Minister's Conference.

Doctoral Degrees

Doctor of Philosophy – PhD

Alison Asquith

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Anglican Encounters with Orthodox Icons.’

Summary

This research explores how Anglicans in Melbourne incorporate Orthodox Christian icons into their everyday religious practice. Drawing on in-depth interviews with fifteen people, the study discovers how and why Anglican worshippers use Orthodox icons in their devotional lives and identifies the socio-cultural background factors that produce this interest.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Andrew Singleton

School:

Humanities and Social Sciences

Rina Bruinsma

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Star Algae Contemporary Surrealist Poetics: Painting Words Around Unconscious Things.’

Summary

This thesis, comprised of exegesis and creative work, is an investigation of the Surrealist marvellous. The creative work is a contemporary piece of writing indebted, in purpose and elements of its construction, to the Surrealists. The exegesis explores the relationship between Surrealism and our evolving understanding of the unconscious and desire.

Principal Supervisor:

Emeritus Professor Ann Mc Culloch

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Erica Charalambous

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Embodied Approaches in Archiving Dance: Memory, Disappearance, Transformations and the archive-as-body.’

Summary

This thesis discusses the valorisation of dance archives as necessary sources of research for an in-depth examination of our socio-political history, intangible cultural heritage and the fragility of digital evolution; namely, how we utilise content and curate multimedia-based information while highlighting the value of embodied ways of inquiry.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Rea Dennis

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Christopher Cody

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Bustard: Confronting the Wounded Male in the (Post)Realist Short Story.’

Summary

This project investigates the double-edged sword of representing ‘wounded’ white males in short fiction by asking: How do I, as a white, middle-class, cisgendered male short-story writer take responsibility for my complicity in my heretofore unwitting, and thus potentially problematic reproduction of wounded, white-male-victim-centric narratives?

Principal Supervisor:

Professor David McCooley

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Dinasha Sajithani Edirisinghe

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Helene Cixous, Patrick White and the Theoretical Value of Ecriture Feminine.'

Summary

This thesis explored the wider theoretical and creative potential of Hélène Cixous' concept of écriture féminine. Drawing on an analysis of poetics, it found that Cixous' writing interweaves masculine and feminine poetic elements to manifest her original contention that écriture féminine is about inclusivity, not the usurpation of the masculine by the feminine.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Marion Campbell

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Rachel Elizabeth Finneran

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Student Voice in Advantaged Communities: Feeling Ahead of the Game.'

Summary

This thesis has investigated the ways student voice, a concept articulated in current Victorian education policy, was enacted in a primary school located in a context of socio-economic advantage. The analysis demonstrates the ways that student voice contributes to schooling inequities resulting in some students feeling ahead of the game.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Eve Mayes

School:

Education

Juan Camilo Fischer Rodriguez

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Evaluative Judgement in Undergraduate Physics: A Practice Architectures Perspective.'

Summary

This thesis uses a practice theory perspective to problematise previous conceptualisations of evaluative judgement in higher education. Using an ethnographic approach, this thesis shows that making judgements about quality is a complex capability that needs to be understood within the constraints of the learners' everyday lives.

Executive Supervisor:

Dr Joanna Tai

Co-supervisor:

Professor David Boud

Hesaam Haji Aboutorab Kashi

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Critical Thinking and Iranian International Students' Academic Writing in Australia.'

Summary

This study explores the concept of critical thinking from a socio-cultural perspective by applying Bourdieu's Theory of Practice. The findings portray critical thinking as a form of symbolic capital and symbolic violence, while identifying different forms of students' habitus which can influence their critical thinking abilities in the context of Australian higher education.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Rod Neilsen

School:

Education

Miah Hammond-Errey

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Big Data and National Security: Impacts for Intelligence.'

Summary

This empirical research examined the impact of big data on national security and intelligence production. It is the first conducted in all of Australia's ten National Intelligence Community agencies and their oversight body. Data collection included semi-structured interviews with 47 senior and operational decision-makers, technologists and former officials.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Chad Whelan

School:

Humanities and Social Sciences

Todd Reece Johnson

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Duration of Decay: Materialist Photography Practice in the Digital Age.'

Summary

This practice-led research investigates and expands on the concept of what has come to be known, and characterised as, 'materialist photography' to assemble a new way of thinking and working in this emerging field.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Dirk De Bruyn

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Marco Magasic

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Mining for News: Examining the Impacts of a Local Newspapers Closure in the Australian Town of Lightning Ridge.'

Summary

This thesis examines how the closure of a local newspaper affected social, political and civic life in the small outback mining town of Lightning Ridge in rural Australia. The research was conducted over a two-month period in 2019 using a focused ethnography, with participant observation, interviews and group discussions as data gathering methods.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Kristy Hess

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Bianka Malecka

Whose thesis is entitled:

'The Role of Ipsative Feedback Processes in Developing Students' Feedback Literacy.'

Summary

This doctoral thesis explores how the application of ipsative processes to feedback can provide learners with systematic opportunities to utilise information from others (teachers, peers, information systems) to improve the quality of their work. The overarching research question for this thesis is: How do ipsative processes influence students' feedback literacy?

Executive Supervisor:

Associate Professor Rola Ajjawi

Co-supervisor:

Dr Joanna Tai

School:

Jason Christopher Maling

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Hosting Play: Towards an Aesthetic Methodology for Generating Agency Within Participatory Art.'

Summary

This thesis examines six participatory public art works by Jason Maling, produced between 1997–2019. Drawing on key theories of play, performance, socially engaged art, and hospitality it argues for a practical methodology that recasts the artist as an ethico-aesthetic host of play: one who stewards and calibrates agency.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor David Cross

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Jeremy Martino

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Writing the Cold War Espionage Thriller.'

Summary

This research explores the process of constructing a historical espionage thriller film from the ground up. It analyses the unique capacity of film to portray history and features a genre study of three prominent Cold War thrillers. Lastly, it includes an original screenplay called The Fall of Winter, which tells the story of the Able Archer '83 crisis, where spies on both sides helped to avert nuclear war.

Executive Supervisor:

Professor Sean Redmond

Co-supervisor:

Dr Donna Mcrae

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Angus Edward McCallum

Whose thesis is entitled:

'The Bundy Family and Political Entrepreneurship in the American West.'

Summary

This thesis illustrates how a specific group of radical right entrepreneurs, the Bundy family, attempted to gain support for their cause by analysing how they framed their ideology and justified their actions. In doing so, it shows how these groups can fail, and what causes their appeal to decline within different audiences.

Executive Supervisor:

Associate Professor David Hundt

Co-supervisor:

Associate Professor Clare Corbould

School:

Humanities and Social Sciences

Amber Rose Smith

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Collecting, Display, and World-Building in Contemporary Art Practice.'

Summary

This thesis examines how we might reimagine the Wunderkammer as a more flexible and open system for understanding artists' relationship to collecting and display in contemporary art practice. It explores how this model enables diverse narratives, institutional critique, auto-didacticism, and auto-ethnography, and informs how artists re-author the meaning of objects.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Cameron Bishop

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Adriana Christina Szili

Whose thesis is entitled:

'The Identity Factory: Tennis Personas in Production.'

Summary

This thesis investigates the complexity in constructing the persona of female tennis players. The 2015 Australian Open has been used as a central focus during this study to highlight the dynamic intersection of media power, celebrity and sport in this Grand Slam tennis tournament.

Principal Supervisor:

Emeritus Professor David Marshall

School:

Communication and Creative Arts

Jodi Elysia Williams

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Peeling Back the Wallpaper: Postfeminist Discourses in the Senior Literature Classroom.'

Summary

This study investigated the way that postfeminist discourses impact on the senior Literature classroom space. It focused on how eight students and the teacher-researcher engaged with discourses around feminism via the state-set curricula and other texts circulating in their daily lives. It found that postfeminism is (re)produced and lived in complex ways in classroom life.

Prizes and Awards

Alfred Deakin Professor

Council established the title of Alfred Deakin Professor to recognise members of Deakin University professoriate who have made a sustained, high level contribution to research at Deakin. The title is the highest honour the University can bestow on a member of academic staff.

The title of Alfred Deakin Professor will be conferred upon Professor Andrea Witcomb for an outstanding and sustained contribution to furthering the University's research and scholarship in the field of cultural heritage and museum studies.

Professor Andrea Witcomb

Professor Witcomb has made a distinguished and sustained contribution to the education, research and impact ambitions of Deakin. An outstanding scholar of international renown, her research capability and leadership has consistently developed capacity in others, and in service of society locally and globally.

Professor Witcomb has been a Professor of Cultural Heritage and Museum Studies since 2014. She brings an interdisciplinary approach to her research, locating her work at the intersection of history, museology and cultural studies, enabling our understanding of the role objects and exhibitions in contributing to positive change within society. Professor Witcomb has authored more than 50 peer reviewed articles and book chapters alongside two monographs and three edited books, delivered more than 40 invited keynotes and presentations, most recently in the United Kingdom, China, Estonia, Germany and Qatar.

In 2016 she was invited as a keynote speaker for the 50th anniversary conference of the Museum Studies program at the University of Leicester in the UK, which is the oldest and most recognised program in the World. In 2018, her contribution to her field was recognised by naming the annual conference of the International Council of Museums International Committee for Museums and Collections of Ethnography (ICME) after her first book, Reimagining Museums. The conference, held at the National Museum of Estonia in Tartu was opened by a keynote address given by Professor Witcomb. Her esteem and impact in her field is evidenced by having been awarded six successful Australian Research Council grants on which she was Chief Investigator. This distinguished track record is further evidenced by her appointment to the ARC College of Experts in 2020, a role in which she provides leadership for organising the peer review of grant submissions and collaborates with her peers in making the final recommendations for awards in multiple ARC schemes across the humanities and social sciences.

Throughout her career, Professor Witcomb has developed and sustained strong partnerships with government and industry organisations, through which she extends the impact of her research. Between 2011 and 2021, she served on the Cultural Heritage Committee of the National Trust of Australia. She has also served on several Museum committees including Museums Australia and the Western Australian Maritime Museum. Through these appointments, Professor Witcomb has informed and influenced policy and the strategic direction of cultural heritage collections and collecting nationally. She has just been appointed to the Heritage Collections Committee at the National Trust of Australia (Victoria) and is an Honorary Research Fellow with Museums Victoria.

Known for her collaborative and enabling approach, Professor Witcomb has made an outstanding contribution to research training and capability at Deakin. She has supervised 15 PhD candidates to completion spanning cultural heritage and museum studies and is currently supervising another 5 students. Her approach to supervision is always collaborative, intent on providing a rich intellectual environment for her students and opportunities for supervision to more junior colleagues. She has also made an outstanding contribution to teaching and learning. Deakin's cultural heritage and museum studies program is the second longest running of its kind in Australia and has developed a global reputation for excellence. Professor Witcomb has been a key leader in the continued impact and excellence of these education programs, and Deakin's global reputation in cultural heritage and museum studies. Professor Witcomb has taught postgraduate cultural heritage and museum studies for more than fifteen years, during which time she has led teaching and learning innovation, and provided academic leadership in the discipline.

These achievements have taken place alongside significant service roles for the University. From 2010 until 2015, Professor Witcomb served as the Director, Cultural Heritage Centre for Asia and the Pacific, Deakin's flagship research centre building upon and extending the University's global reputation for education and research excellence in the field. She was elected by her peers to the Faculty of Arts and Education Board from 2017–2020. From 2012 until 2020, Professor Witcomb served as the Deputy Director of the Alfred Deakin Institute (formerly the Alfred Deakin Research Institute) with responsibilities spanning governance and research and researcher development. As Deputy Director Research in the Alfred Deakin Institute, Professor Witcomb established and implemented best-practice mentoring and researcher development programs with a focus on enabling early career researchers to successfully apply for ARC DECRA Fellowships. In 2018 she received the Faculty of Arts and Education Research Mentoring Award in recognition of this work.

Continuing her distinguished contribution to the University, Professor Witcomb was appointed Associate Dean Research, Faculty of Arts and Education in 2020. In this capacity, she has overseen significant advancements in Faculty research strategy, with a focus on the growth of quality, participation and impact. She is also an elected member of Deakin's Academic Board as well as the Deputy Chair of the University's Research and Research Training Committee.

Deakin Award: Global Citizenship

Adriana Angouras

The Global Citizenship Award recognises the achievement of students who have demonstrated outstanding global citizenship through engagement in a range of activities that develop and demonstrate their interpersonal and intercultural capability across variable cultural contexts and global environments. This award recognises the importance of intercultural understanding and respect to the success of graduates, organisations and communities.

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘A Conditional Defence of Dual-Method Theories of Self-Knowledge.’

Summary

This thesis defended the traditional philosophical idea that we have a special way of knowing our own mental states, against two influential theories that deny that claim. It found that one of those theories is actually a form of the traditional view, and that the other is not sufficiently supported by the evidence rallied in favour of it.

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Gottfried Helnwein’s Provocation of Austrian Memories of the Nazi Past.’

Summary

This thesis analyses the artwork of controversial memory activist Gottfried Helnwein (1948–) who has spent his artistic career challenging the Austrian memories of the Nazi past. By placing the artwork within its historical context, this thesis uniquely synthesises, and challenges accepted interpretations of Helnwein’s artwork and its reception in conservative post-war Austria.

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Error Analysis in The Work of Novice Indonesian Translators.’

Summary

This case study was conducted within the Translation Program in the English Department of Politeknik Negeri Padang (PNP), West Sumatera, Indonesia. It demonstrates how error analysis is informative in understanding students’ deficiencies if incorporated as an assessment technique at the institutional level. Consequently, this study provides recommendations on a new direction for more effective translation education in Indonesia.

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Dairy Intake and Health: Exploring Mechanisms and Functions.’

Summary

This This thesis aimed to assess the mechanisms by which dairy intake may exert health benefits and furthering the knowledge on understudied and controversial health functions of dairy. The findings of this thesis suggested beneficial impacts of dairy intake on gut microbiome, adipocytokine functions, constipation, and fracture risk.

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘The Development of a Psychosocial Intervention for Self-Harm in Youth.’

Summary

This thesis describes a systematic approach to develop a modular psychological intervention for self-harm in youth using a series of formative studies followed by the findings from a pilot case series to test its acceptability. The intervention was co-designed by the lived experience consultants and has the potential to be scaled up.

Principal Supervisor:

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Does Sleep Enhance Retention of an Implicitly Learnt Motor Sequence?’

Summary

This thesis examined whether sleep is needed to retain the memory of and implicit motor sequence beyond the initial learning phase. It was found that sleeping does not substantially benefit retention of this type of information; rather, motor sequences appear to be retained with the passage of time.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Jarrad Lum

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Motor Imagery in Atypical Motor Development.’

Summary

This study investigated motor imagery, the ability to imagine movement, in children and adults with atypical motor skill. It also used non-invasive brain stimulation to explore and modulate motor related brain regions to further understand the neural basis of motor imagery and motor development. The findings provided support for the possible role of reduced motor imagery in atypical motor development, and pointed towards the need for continued neurophysiological investigations of motor imagery ability.

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Targeting Iron Overload: A Potential Approach Towards Glioblastoma Therapy.'

Summary

This study explored the involvement of iron in glioblastoma (GBM) progression, presenting its differential role in GBM cells. This study serves as a prominent direction toward the investigation of iron regulatory pathways in GBM further exploiting them as potential targets for GBM therapy.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Rasika Samarasinghe

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Social Cognitive Development: An Investigation of Language, Empathy, and Reasoning.'

Summary

This thesis investigated social cognitive development, and language and moral reasoning, in early-to-middle childhood, using behavioural and neurophysiological measures. Collectively, this thesis illustrates the ongoing development of social cognitive skills across early-to-middle childhood and highlights the nuanced role of language during this development.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Peter Enticott

Elizabeth Mary Clancy

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Motivations and Associations with Sext Dissemination in Early Adulthood.'

Summary

This thesis provides an exploration of the motivations, behaviours and personality traits associated with the dissemination of intimate images (sexts), including both consensual and non-consensual forms of these behaviours. The four studies which form this thesis include three published papers and one paper under review at the time of submission, and investigate young adult samples in Western nations, particularly Australia.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Bianca Klettke

School:

Psychology

Jessica Allison Davis

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Diet Quality, the Gut Microbiota, and Associations with Muscle Health.'

Summary

This thesis provides support for the role of diet quality in maintaining long-term muscle health in men and women. Diet quality was also found to associate with the health-promoting butyrate producing bacteria of the gut microbiota, supporting the role of a healthy diet in maintaining a healthy gut microbiota.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Felice Jacka

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Non-invasive Cerebellar Stimulation and Cerebellar Involvement in Developmental.'

Summary

This thesis examined the use of Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation of the cerebellar hemisphere for assessment of the cerebellar-thalamocortical tract. A lower bound for stimulus intensity was determined, and feasibility of extending the protocol to non-motor domains explored. A structural imaging analysis identified cerebellar involvement in ADHD, flagging potential therapeutic applications.

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Patient and Family Narratives About Triggering Responses to Clinical Deterioration.'

Summary

This research investigated the ability of hospitalised patients and their families to recognise and communicate changes in the patient's condition to prevent avoidable adverse events. Multiple factors impact consumer participation, requiring interventions from health care clinicians to encourage and empower patients and families to speak up about their concerns.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Tracey Bucknall

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Influence of Ethnicity on Neuroimaging and Clinical Outcome Post Stroke.'

Summary

This research focused on stroke outcomes which were influenced by CT perfusion parameters. However, these thresholds were derived from stroke patients in Western populations and had not been adequately investigated in Asian populations. The findings showed that the optimal perfusion thresholds in predicting final infarct volume was different between stroke patients in Jakarta (Asian) and Geelong (Western).

Principal Supervisor:

Emeritus Professor Paul Yelder

Vanessa Lee Sturre

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Enhancing Tertiary Student Employability: Longitudinal Evaluation of Developmental Assessment Centres.'

Summary

This thesis evaluated the longitudinal impact of a developmental assessment centre to improve work placement assessment and professional competence of postgraduate psychology students. The findings demonstrated the importance of using work-relevant learning and assessment in postgraduate psychology training and that student competence improves with this type of experience.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Arlene Walker

School:

Ashlee Louise Thomas

Whose thesis is entitled:

'The Effects of cTBS and DAT1 Gene on Spatial Attention.'

Summary

This research investigated theories of attention that attempt to explain spatial preference and attentional disorders. Transcranial magnetic stimulation (TMS) was applied to manipulate neural pathways believed to be involved in attention. Task selection was important in examining spatial preference and assessing the effectiveness of TMS, with differences in the dopamine transporter gene contributing to the observed variability in TMS.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Mark Rogers

Whose thesis is entitled:

'The Role of Feared Self in Obsessive Compulsive Disorder.'

Summary

This thesis investigated the role of feared self in obsessive compulsive disorder and its relationship with other OC-related cognitive processes such as inferential confusion and magical ideation. The findings add support to the role of feared self and contribute to clarifying the links between multiple cognitive factors related to the disorder.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Jeromy Anglim

Whose thesis is entitled:

'The Lived Experiences of Yoga as a Mental Health Treatment.'

Summary

This thesis examined the lived experiences of yoga as an adjunct mental health treatment using qualitative methodology. It explores the potential for yoga, as a mind-body therapy, to enhance clinical outcomes and rates of engagement with evidence-based psychological therapies, namely Cognitive Behaviour Therapy (CBT), for people with anxiety and depressive disorders.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Melissa O'Shea

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Natural Therapeutics Coupled with Nanotechnology, Advancing Glioblastoma Multiforme Treatment Efficacy.’

Summary

This thesis investigated the benefits of the natural therapeutics curcumin and bovine lactoferrin against Glioblastoma Multiforme (GBM), the most lethal form of brain cancer. Derived from plant and animal material respectively, curcumin was determined the more effective of the pair through cellular investigations and incorporated within sugar-based nanoparticles. Also investigated, the nanoparticles displayed anti-cancer potential for GBM, though further investigation is required.

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘The Impact of Covid-19 on General Surgery in Geelong.’

Summary

This thesis explores the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on General Surgery in Geelong. It examines the impact of the pandemic on the delivery of General Surgery services during the first few months of the COVID-19 pandemic and then explores the impact of the uncertainty around PPE guidelines amongst operating theatre staff. These impacts are presented in the context of the first two years of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Principal Supervisor:

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Comparison of Shoulder Arthroplasty Outcomes between Private and Public Settings.’

Summary

This thesis explored the influence of healthcare setting on shoulder arthroplasty outcomes between private and public patients. The primary outcome was surgical revision rate. Secondary outcomes were assessed through multiple functional measures. The findings demonstrated no difference in surgical revision rate, but significantly better pre and post-operative functional measures in private patients.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Richard Page

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Optimising Sarcopenia Measurement to Improve Surgical Risk Assessment.’

Summary

This research examined the relationship between sarcopenia and surgical outcomes. A meta-analysis and cohort study demonstrated sarcopenia to be an effective predictor of surgical outcomes – both mortality and major complications. Separating the commonly used sarcopenia measures revealed psoas muscle density to be the most effective radiological marker of sarcopenia.

Alfred Deakin Professor

Council established the title of Alfred Deakin Professor to recognise members of Deakin University professoriate who have made a sustained, high level contribution to research at Deakin. The title is the highest honour the University can bestow on a member of academic staff.

The title of Alfred Deakin Professor will be conferred upon Professor Rachel Huxley in recognition of her leadership of the Faculty of Health and her significant and sustained contribution to the success of the University.

Professor Rachel Huxley

Professor Rachel Huxley is an internationally renowned cardiovascular epidemiologist who has made, and continues to make, significant contributions to our understanding of how risk factors impact on disease risk at both the population and individual level. After obtaining her DPhil in Epidemiology and Public Health from St John's College, Oxford in 2001 she relocated to Sydney as a Senior Research Fellow at the George Institute for Global Health during which time she established several major consortia of cohort studies designed to better understand the role of major and modifiable risk factors on health.

From there, she moved to take up a position within the Division of Epidemiology and Community Health at the University of Minnesota in 2009. After surviving several sub-zero winters Rachel moved back to Australia with her young family to the University of Queensland where she held the Chair in Epidemiology. In 2019, Professor Huxley moved to Deakin where she became the Executive Dean for the Faculty of Health.

Professor Huxley's has spent two decades quantifying the impacts of major risk factors on disease outcomes and in particular in furthering our understanding of how sex and ethnicity modify these risks.

Her major contributions to epidemiology include three seminal papers published in the preeminent medical journal, The Lancet. The first in 2001 was a robust refutation of the fetal-origins hypothesis – a novel popular theory about the early life origins of chronic disease that dominated the epidemiological literature in the 1990s and 2000s.

The second paper was published a decade later, which convincingly demonstrated that cigarette smoking posed a far greater health hazard to women than men – even though women smoke fewer and at less intensity than men. In a related editorial, The Lancet acknowledged the imperative for researchers to power studies sufficiently to be able to conduct sex and gender analyses as well as the need for publishers to require authors to provide disaggregated results.

The third paper, published in 2015, for the first time articulated how women with type 1 diabetes have a much greater risk of dying prematurely compared with similarly affected men, at all ages and all other risk factors being equal.

Since then, Rachel has led a team which aims to understand what the physiological, behavioural and social determinants are underpinning these sex differences and how they can be mitigated. In particular, her work has led to a growing awareness that structural biases in the Australian healthcare system contributes significantly to a woman's greater propensity to worse vascular outcomes compared with men. Her most recent research builds on these previous studies and in 2020 she was awarded highly competitive funding from the NHMRC to lead a study that examines through using linked data how and when sex and gender disparities in access to healthcare contributes to a woman's excess risk of having a heart attack compared with men.

Professor Huxley has published more than 220 research articles in her career, has been cited more than 33,000 times and has a Scopus h-index of 70. She has been the recipient of several personal fellowships including from the International Society for Hypertension and the Heart Foundation of Australia and has received competitive funding from the NHMRC, Diabetes Australia and the Heart Foundation of Australia to support her research. Professor Huxley is passionate about academic leadership, mentorship and in fostering the next generation of researchers. She has supervised numerous Postdoctoral, Doctoral and Masters' students over the past two decades, many of whom have gone on to become independently successful academics around the world.

Closing Address

Alfred Deakin Professor Rachel Huxley, Executive Dean – Faculty of Health

Professor Catherine Bennett

The Occasional Address will be delivered by Professor Catherine Bennett.

Professor Bennett's career in epidemiology, applied biostatistics and physical anthropology cuts across health, university and government sectors, including working on outbreak preparedness and response with NSW Health and the Australian Government. After working as Olympic Public Health Coordinator for Northern Sydney in 2000, Catherine returned to academia and was Associate Professor in Epidemiology and Director of Population Health Practice with the Melbourne School of Population and Global Health before taking up the inaugural Chair in Epidemiology at Deakin in late 2009.

Soon after joining Deakin she was appointed Head of the School of Health and Social Development, a role she maintained for three 3-year terms. Under her leadership, the School grew from a cluster of discipline teams thrown together as part of a faculty restructure into a strong, research-intensive, cohesive and confident school with a powerful sense of identity and purpose. By the end of headship, HSD was ranked in the top 100 Public Health schools in the world.

Catherine is now the elected staff member on Deakin University Council, and the incoming Director of the Determinants of Health Domain in the Institute for Health Transformation. Her own research focuses on community transmission of infectious diseases, and Catherine is involved in a range of COVID-19 projects, including global analyses of excess deaths, public health risk communication, contact tracing methods and COVID-safe protocols.

Catherine has been a leading public analyst during the COVID-19 response, keynote speaker, and advisor to industry, governments, and institutions globally. She is now recognised globally for her COVID-19 work as an influential leader in pandemic analyses and debate.

Doctoral Degrees

Doctor of Philosophy – PhD

Linda Ann Atkins

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Iron Nutrition of Australian Pre-Schoolers.’

Summary

This thesis provides a greater understanding of the adequacy of iron intakes of Australian children aged 2–5 years. The findings describe three main patterns that characterise Australian pre-schooler diets and their associations with haem and non-haem iron intakes. The research also details the bioavailability of iron intakes across the day and for specific eating occasions and estimates the proportion of Australian pre-schoolers with absorbed iron below requirements. This is an important contribution in relation to dietary recommendations for younger and older pre-schoolers.

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Understanding Behavioural Patterns in Children.’

Summary

This thesis examined multiple health behaviours as behavioural patterns using three data reduction techniques. Behavioural patterns were identified and their associations with childhood outcomes and correlates were explored.

The findings provide methodological insights to deriving behavioural patterns and help understand the combined influence of health behaviours on childhood outcomes.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Kylie Hesketh

School:

Exercise and Nutrition Sciences

Michael John Hart

Whose thesis is entitled:

‘Diet, Inflammation and Cognitive Function in Mid-Age and Older Adults.’

Summary

This thesis examines associations between dietary intake, inflammation, and cognitive function. The findings highlight that maintaining a healthy diet throughout life may assist in maintaining cognitive function, specifically, prior to age 50 in younger adults compared to adults ≥50 years.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Catherine Milte

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Epidemiology of Type 2 Diabetes and Impaired Fasting Glucose and their Risk Factors in West Africa: Analyses of WHO STEPS Surveys.'

Summary

This thesis examined the epidemiology of both Type 2 Diabetes and Impaired Fasting Glucose and a range of risk factors across West Africa. It utilised the WHO's STEPS survey data from Burkina Faso, Benin, Mali, Liberia, and Ghana, and found waist circumference to be the most cost-effective and accurate obesity measure to screen and identify individuals at high risk of developing Type 2 Diabetes.

Whose thesis is entitled:

'The Influence of Parents Reading Storybooks with Their Children on Settling Children's Behaviour During Transitioning to Early Childhood Education and Care Centres.'

Summary

This study employed seven children aged between three to five years who were attending an Early Childhood Education and Care (ECEC) centre for the first time, their parents and the room educators. Using constructivist grounded theory as the methodology, the research findings were formed into developing a theoretical model that represents the process of facilitating a positive transition to ECEC.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Russell Shuttleworth

School:

Dipendra Kumar Mahato

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Understanding Consumer Behaviour and Shelf-Life of Reduced-Sugar Chocolate Flavoured Milk.'

Summary

This thesis investigated the possibility of achieving sugar reduction in chocolate flavoured milk using natural sweeteners and their impact on the sensory and shelf-life of the product. The findings suggest that 50% of added sugar can be reduced without significantly impacting sensory, physicochemical, and microbial properties.

Principle Supervisor:

Dr Shirani Gamlath

School:

Exercise and Nutrition Sciences

Mirian Elizabeth Meade

Whose thesis is entitled:

'The Voice of Recovery: The Experience of Young People Who Have Been Dual Clients of Child Protection and Youth Justice.'

Summary

This study captured the voice of young people who have recovered from familial trauma in the context of dual statutory orders from the Children's Court. The findings indicate that practice with young people subject to Child Protection and Youth Justice involvement can be strengthened with the integration of attachment theory into relationship-based practice, and ongoing support for the spiritual self-care practices of practitioners.

Principal Supervisor:

Professor Beth Crisp

School:

Health and Social Development

Bridget Ellen Morrissey

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Childhood Obesity and Sleep: A Multi-Dimensional Issue.'

Summary

This thesis examined the association between childhood obesity and sleep. The studies emphasised the importance of all sleep dimensions including timing, quality, efficiency and duration and obesity risk.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Claudia Strugnell

School:

Health and Social Development

Mamatha Philip Gabriel

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Creatine Metabolism and Supplementation of the Maternal Uterus.'

Summary

The findings from this thesis expands existing knowledge of uterine creatine metabolism during the human reproductive cycle and pregnancy. Additionally, it provides new insights into understanding of maternal creatine supplementation's effect on creatine metabolism in the pregnant spiny mice uterus.

Principal Supervisor:

Dr Paul Della Gatta

School:

Exercise and Nutrition Sciences

Elise Danielle Rivera

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Park Design for Adolescents: Implications for Physical Activity and Social Connectedness.'

Summary

This thesis sought to explore how parks can maximise adolescents' physical activity and social interaction. Findings showed limited evidence for associations between park visitation and active use with adolescents' social connectedness. Results highlighted specific park features that were critical for influencing adolescents' visitation, physical activity, and social interaction in parks.

Principal Supervisor:

Associate Professor Jenny Veitch

School:

Exercise and Nutrition Sciences

Charles Stanley Urwin

Whose thesis is entitled:

'Physiological and Gastrointestinal Responses to Ingestion of Sodium Citrate.'

Summary

This thesis may stimulate further investigation of sodium citrate supplementation prior to short-duration and high-intensity exercise, and provides evidence-based recommendations for supplementation protocols that provide the greatest likelihood of observing a performance improvement.

Alfred Deakin Professor

Council established the title of Alfred Deakin Professor to recognise members of Deakin University professoriate who have made a sustained, high level contribution to research at Deakin. The title is the highest honour the University can bestow on a member of academic staff.

The title of Alfred Deakin Professor will be conferred upon Professor Catherine Bennett for an outstanding and sustained contribution to furthering the University's research and scholarship in the field of public health, in particular, epidemiology.

Professor Catherine Bennett

Professor Bennett's career in epidemiology, applied biostatistics and physical anthropology cuts across health, university and government sectors, including working on outbreak preparedness and response with NSW Health and the Australian Government.

After working as Olympic Public Health Coordinator for Northern Sydney in 2000, Catherine returned to academia and was Associate Professor in Epidemiology and Director of Population Health Practice with the Melbourne School of Population and Global Health before taking up the inaugural Chair in Epidemiology at Deakin in late 2009.

Soon after joining Deakin she was appointed Head of the School of Health and Social Development, a role she maintained for three 3-year terms. Under her leadership, the School grew from a cluster of discipline teams thrown together as part of a faculty restructure into a strong, research-intensive, cohesive and confident school with a powerful sense of identity and purpose. By the end of headship, HSD was ranked in the top 100 Public Health schools in the world.

Catherine is now the elected staff member on Deakin University Council, and the incoming Director of the Determinants of Health Domain in the Institute for Health Transformation. Her own research focuses on community transmission of infectious diseases, and Catherine is involved in a range of COVID-19 projects, including global analyses of excess deaths, public health risk communication, contact tracing methods and COVID-safe protocols.

Catherine has been a leading public analyst during the COVID-19 response, keynote speaker, and advisor to industry, governments, and institutions globally. She is now recognised globally for her COVID-19 work as an influential leader in pandemic analyses and debate.

Alfred Deakin Professor

Council established the title of Alfred Deakin Professor to recognise members of Deakin University professoriate who have made a sustained, high level contribution to research at Deakin. The title is the highest honour the University can bestow on a member of academic staff.

The title of Alfred Deakin Professor will be conferred upon Professor Sarah McNaughton for an outstanding and sustained contribution to furthering the University's research and scholarship in the field of nutrition and dietetics.

Professor Sarah McNaughton

Alfred Deakin Professor Sarah McNaughton is a public health nutritionist in the Institute for Physical Activity and Nutrition (IPAN) and has made significant and sustained contributions to Deakin University and the discipline of nutrition and dietetics over the last 20 years. She joined Deakin University in 2005 after completing her PhD at the University of Queensland in 2003, and a postdoctoral position at the MRC Centre for Human Nutrition Research (Cambridge, UK).

She has received funding from National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC), Australian Research Council (ARC), Heart Foundation, Diabetes Australia Research Trust and World Cancer Research Fund including 4 nationally competitive research fellowships.

Professor McNaughton leads an internationally recognised research program that focuses on the role of foods, eating patterns and dietary patterns in health and wellbeing and the translation of dietary patterns research into practice and policy, underpinned by innovative methodologies creating a paradigm shift in the way population diets are assessed. Her research on diet quality and dietary patterns has informed national and international dietary guidelines, position statements and local, national and international policy documents.

She also led the development of national research infrastructure for the field of nutrition and dietetics across Australia (ASA24-Australia), partnering with the US National Cancer Institute resulting in enhanced research capacity and facilitating national and international collaborations, and cross-disciplinary and multisite studies.

Her work has resulted in multiple awards and distinctions including the 2020 Nutrition Society of Australia (NSA) Medal, 2016 Nutrition Society of Australia Mid-Career Travel Award, the 2009 Nutrition Society of Australia Research Award and in 2018 she was made a fellow of Dietitians Australia. She was also awarded the 2017 Deakin University Vice-Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Research Supervision and the 2010 Deakin University's Vice-Chancellor's Award for Outstanding Contribution to Research (Early Career Researcher).

She has made significant contributions to Deakin University as a member of Academic Board (2018–21), Deputy Director of Institute for Physical Activity and Nutrition (2020–21), School of Exercise and Nutrition Sciences Executive Group (2016–21), Discipline Leader for Dietetics (2015–20) and Higher Degrees by Research Coordinator on two occasions. She has served on numerous other committees including the Science and Society Network, IPAN Executive Committee, Faculty Research and Research Training Committee, and Faculty Board.

She is committed to building research capacity and the next generation of health researchers. She is currently Head of Early and Mid-career Researcher Development for IPAN, and is a mentor for IPAN, the School of Exercise and Nutrition Sciences, Dietitians Australia and the Nutrition Society of Australia. She has mentored over 20 academics and supervised 13 PhD students, 9 Honours students and 5 Masters students and all have transitioned to successful careers in research, health or government positions including multiple research fellowships.

She has served on over 25 national and international committees and advisory groups including for the World Health Organization, NHMRC, Australian Chronic Disease Prevention Alliance, Australian Academy of Science, Oceanic Nutrition Leadership Program, Council of Deans of Nutrition & Dietetics (Australia and New Zealand), Heart Foundation and Nutrition Australia. Her expertise and leadership in nutrition and dietetics was acknowledged in September 2021, when she was appointed Chair of the NHMRC Australian Dietary Guidelines Expert Committee.
