Acknowledgement of Country

Deakin University acknowledges the Traditional Custodians of all the unceded lands, skies and waterways on which Deakin students, staff and communities come together. As we learn and teach through virtually and physically constructed places across time, we pay our deep respect to the Ancestors and Elders of Wadawurrung Country, Eastern Maar Country and Wurundjeri Country, where our physical campuses are located. We also acknowledge the many First Nations from where students join us online and make vital contributions to our learning communities.

Your future in arts, humanities and social sciences

Enjoy a world-class education

Be inspired at a top 1% worldwide university for arts and humanities. This is according to the 2022 QS World University Rankings, which are some of the most influential and widely observed annual international university rankings.

Strong industry links to get you ahead

You can be confident that what you learn at Deakin will be relevant to your career. Our courses are developed and reviewed with professional input, meaning they'll give you the edge to succeed now – and well into the future. You'll also have access to various networking opportunities, as our School of Humanities and Social Sciences has strong partnerships with government and several high-profile non-government organisations such as Save the Children.

Practical, real-world learning

Sharpen your skills in real-world environments and explore current industry practices through a range of practical experiences embedded in Deakin's courses, to ensure you graduate work ready. Many of our arts, humanities and social sciences degrees include the option to undertake a professional internship with a government, private sector, non-government or community organisation.

Prepare for your future career

Design a future career you love from day one. Personalise your arts degree by combining specific majors and minors that appeal to you and your future career interests – with more than 30 fields to choose from. Our program features a specialised pathway focused on preparing individuals for their careers with our distinctive Your Future Career Units. You'll engage with the community and industry through individually tailored work placement and networking opportunities, allowing you to develop leadership skills and the entrepreneurial mindset to make your mark in a career you love.

Your future in arts, humanities and social sciences

Learn from leaders in their fields

Our teaching staff are passionate professionals and recognised innovators in their fields, which means when you study at Deakin, you'll learn from the very best. Our academic staff are active in the media and conduct important research, making a positive impact in Australia and around the world.

Gain international experience

Experience new cultures, create networks across the world and gain credit towards your degree with an international experience in a range of destinations or online. You could pursue opportunities like:

- internationally focused internships
- language study
- social enterprise projects
- study tours
- trimester exchange programs
- volunteering opportunities.

Explore our immersive precinct

Learn in collaborative, new ways and explore concepts, locations and global topics through immersive learning experiences in the Nyaal precinct at the Geelong Waurin Ponds Campus.

Nyaal is a cutting-edge, interactive learning environment with a 360-degree theatre, collaborative think tank and event space. From testing solutions to real-world problems using simulated scenarios to gaining insights into future workplaces, students from disciplines including communication, criminology, education and history can gain valuable interactive experience before heading out into the professional world.

#1 Victorian university for course satisfaction

Year on year, Deakin's students have the highest course satisfaction rate of all Victorian universities.¹ We've ranked this highly for the past 13 years, with our students being particularly happy with our:

- teaching
- learning resources
- student support
- skills development
- learner engagement.

#1 Victorian university for graduate employment

We're proud to say that 90.8% of Deakin undergraduates find jobs within four months of completing their course.² At Deakin you can study with confidence and get the knowledge and skills you'll need to progress your career.

Learn a language and expand your world

Study one or more of the world's most strategically important languages – Arabic, Mandarin Chinese, Indonesian and Spanish. Each of these languages is in the top 10 most widely spoken languages in the world.

You may choose to study a language as a major or minor within your degree, or add on a specialist language diploma alongside your undergraduate studies.

You don't have to have any prior knowledge to study a language at Deakin (if you do have prior knowledge, we can accommodate that too).

Each of our languages offers in-country study options, where students' skills will be accelerated through total immersion. Further opportunities include international internships and professional placements, with many employers recognising the value of language learning combined with international experience.

Disciplines

Take a look through our disciplines to choose your area of expertise. Knowing which discipline you're interested in helps career practitioners find the best course for you. Corresponding courses are featured on the following pages, so you can learn more about what you'll study, available professional work experience opportunities and the types of careers you could pursue. Once you have chosen a course, you can then pick which discipline to specialise in within that course. Visit deakin.edu.au/humanities for detailed discipline and course information, including a description of the units within each degree.

Anthropology

Anthropology is the study of humanity in the broadest sense. Anthropology at Deakin focuses on the ways human society creates its communities in diverse cultural settings. Studies in anthropology prepare you to understand and work with people in diverse and international settings. Topics studied include poverty and development, crime and violence, belief systems, health and illness and human ecology.

You may find employment in community relations, the education sector, government departments, the health industry, media corporations, research consultancies and welfare organisations.

Arabic

Australia's trade with the Middle East has more than doubled in the past decade, making it an increasingly important region with broad strategic, economic, religious and cultural influence. Studies in Arabic help you develop communication skills in modern standard Arabic, with language fluency further enhanced through an understanding of Middle Eastern history, culture and society. In-country language programs are available to students undertaking a major sequence in Arabic.

Chinese

Mandarin Chinese is one of the world's most important languages. It is the official language of the People's Republic of China, Taiwan and Singapore and is one of the five official languages of the United Nations. Develop your communication skills in Chinese, with language fluency further enhanced through an understanding of Chinese culture, history and society. In-country language programs are available to students undertaking a major sequence in Chinese, giving you the opportunity to travel overseas and try out your language skills with native speakers.

Criminology

Gain a theoretical and practical understanding of the causes of crime and key problems associated with law enforcement, court processes and punishment. Criminology examines how societies deal with a wide range of crime issues of contemporary significance, including violence in the home, environmental crime, technology and crime, victimisation, and surveillance processes. The overall objective of a criminology degree is to develop your understanding and critical interpretation of a wide range of knowledge related to crime, and to develop skills for undertaking criminological research and respond effectively to the challenges of crime.

Education

Gain a strong understanding of education across a broad range of contexts. Learn about educating children, young people and adults by exploring topics like the sociology, politics and policy of education; the history and philosophy of education; and how psychology is applied to the work of educators to better understand how people learn and become motivated, and how we teach each other about inclusivity and diversity.

English – Children's literature

Deakin is a world leader in the study of literature for children and young adults. Discover key trends in children's texts across a range of media, and how stories for young people reflect and challenge the values of their time. This discipline caters to anyone interested in children's literature as a prominent domain of literary production, to those intending to work with children and young people as primary or secondary teachers and librarians, and to those who wish to produce texts for young people.

English – Creative writing

Gain expertise, practical experience and develop skills in creative writing. With an emphasis on publication or the achievement of professional standards, you'll undertake various forms of constructive, descriptive and narrative writing, progressing to editing, non-fiction and fiction writing, script writing, poetry writing, and digital forms of writing.

English – Literature

At Deakin, literature is the door to new understandings of cultures and histories. Our literary studies scholars have international profiles in philosophy, poetry, ecology and Australian literature, and will guide you in critical and creative journeys through great literature from the medieval era to today. There are also many opportunities for your own creative writing and critical analysis.

Award-winning university career service¹

DeakinTALENT will prepare you to secure the jobs of tomorrow. Our award-winning service is available to you from day one and will support you for the rest of your career. You'll have lifetime access to career coaching, industry networking opportunities and a comprehensive suite of digital resources helping you develop the most employable version of yourself.

Disciplines

Film and television studies

Develop your creative ideas, practical skills and screen culture knowledge. This discipline will immerse you in various storytelling techniques, histories, developments and contexts that enable the creation of screen productions in Australia and around the world. As you delve into the exhibition of screen works, you'll explore the different ways audiences engage with film and television locally and globally.

Gender and sexuality studies

Through an integrated study of local experiences and transnational flows of knowledge and influences, you'll gain insight into the key forces which shape our understandings and lived experiences of gender and sexuality, both as cultural phenomena and as embodied practices. In particular, the program emphasises the intersectional dimensions of gender and sexuality, addressing questions of class, citizenship, ethnicity, race, religion, ability and geographical location.

History

You have the opportunity to explore the nature of the modern world – the forces that have shaped our past and present, and the ways historians interpret historical events. Themes covered include the world in the 20th century, war and peace, modernisation and social change, colonialism, and gender.

You may find employment opportunities in the education sector, local government, media corporations, museums/heritage organisations, research consultancies and tourism organisations.

Indigenous studies

Build understanding, recognition and validity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander ways of Valuing, Being, Knowing and Doing. Completing this sequence of study will facilitate a deeper understanding of Australia's multiple histories. It will foster productive and meaningful relationships in culturally diverse communities, especially with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples.

Culturally responsive graduates can apply these skills and practices to a wide range of services, including education, creative industries, and health and community services.

Be rewarded for your hard work

A Deakin scholarship is more than just a financial boost. It is our chance to acknowledge your accomplishments and reward your hard work, setting you on the path to success at university. Our extensive scholarship program includes three key scholarships:

- Vice-Chancellor's Academic Excellence Scholarship
- Deakin Scholarship for Excellence
- Deakin Student Support Scholarship.

We also offer a range of donor- and government-funded scholarships. Each is unique with differing criteria, rewarding aspiring students from diverse backgrounds.

Disciplines

Indonesian

As the world's fourth most populous nation and a close neighbouring country, Indonesia is vitally important to Australia. By studying Indonesian language, you'll gain a range of communication skills and an understanding of Indonesian history, culture and society. Exciting opportunities for international placements enrich this learning and enhance employability.

Indonesian language skills and experience in diverse cultural settings are valued attributes. Career opportunities in Federal and State Government departments include DFAT, AusAID, intelligence agencies and the education sector.

International relations

Gain an in-depth understanding of global political systems and relationships. Why do states co-operate with each other? Why do they make war? How can we define power and security? What role does globalisation play in state interactions and how does the international system deal with issues such as human rights, humanitarian and environmental challenges?

Take your studies beyond the classroom

Study a Bachelor of Arts and benefit from the chance to take part in a global experience.¹

Unique opportunities may include:

- global study tours
- global volunteering projects
- in-country language study in Oman, China, Indonesia or Spain
- individual or team professional internships in a range of destinations or online
- social enterprise team internships in Borneo.

1 Global experiences are subject to change of location.

Media and communication

Gain a solid footing in the key developments of the broad communications industries that are re-shaping our cultures. Sitting at the intersections of a range of communication disciplines, you will be able to develop the skills to ask – and answer – the big contemporary questions and debates around big data and surveillance, the state of the news media and the rise of celebrity culture. Use these insights to make a meaningful contribution to the local and global communication industries and wider community.

Middle East studies

Gain a comprehensive understanding of the events and issues shaping one of the most politically complex and fascinating regions of the world. Pursue a variety of strategies to unpack the history and systems of the Middle East, leading students towards developing an improved comprehension of why situations such as the Syrian Civil War, the Israel-Palestine impasse and the War on Terror present the region and the wider world with so many challenges.

Media studies

This is an area of rapid and continuous technological, political, economic and social change. Much of the recent explosion in the stock of human knowledge is linked with developments in media. Studying this discipline will equip you with a unique multiskilled qualification appropriate for many careers and job markets.

Performing arts

Immerse yourself in the exciting physical, social and conceptual possibilities of performing arts. Learn how performance and embodied creativity intersects with innovative thinking, community enrichment and technology. Study the diverse ways in which performing arts can engage and make a difference.

Philosophy

Philosophy at Deakin asks questions about the nature of reality, truth, knowledge, meaning, the mind, personal identity, the good in ethical and political life, and the value and power of art. At the same time, it fosters the development of skills in critical and creative thinking, argumentation, communication, problem-solving and research.

Politics and policy studies

Enhance your understanding of the big issues in the world today and develop the skills to make a difference in your lifetime. You'll investigate the challenge posed to Australia and the world by climate change, asylum seekers and refugees, development, inequality, political parties and new social movements. Examine the ideas behind the policy and the rhetoric – then look globally for different solutions, investigate how policy lessons are learned, and assess the impact on domestic and global politics.

Public relations studies

Public relations practitioners are 21st-century communication specialists who manage and coordinate relationships between organisations, agencies and the public. With a focus on ethical and sustainable communication practices, this discipline builds key knowledge and skills in core public relations responsibilities such as event management and campaigns, social media tactics and media relations, and strategic planning, management and communication.

Religious studies

Understanding religion has seldom been as important as it is today. There is increasing dialogue among the greater religions of the world, but there is also increasing misunderstandings of religious traditions. Religious studies at Deakin explores religions from diverse viewpoints and methodologies, including perspectives from the disciplines of anthropology, philosophy, sociology and Indigenous studies.

Social media

Working across a range of social media platforms, you will specialise in digital content creation to engage audiences and build communities. You will combine production skills with various online storytelling forms, applying knowledge of the ethical guardrails and legal constraints that come with producing content for present day industries.

Disciplines

Design your future career

Build a degree that aligns with your unique values and interests. As well as choosing from the broad range of disciplines listed here, you can develop additional areas of expertise by adding minor sequences to your degree. Options include:

- Animation
- Design thinking
- Global challenges
- Sport and society
- UX design¹
- Web design.

Find out more at deakin.edu.au/course/A310.

¹ UX means 'user experience'.

Sociology

Sociology is the academic study of society. Explore social change and how social structures, social institutions and culture shape the lives of individuals and communities. Engage with contemporary issues in the global and Australian landscape such as how society shapes (and is shaped by) illness and health policies, gender and sexuality, religion and new forms of spirituality, migration and inequality, violence and social control.

Spanish

Spanish is a thriving international language, with close to 543 million Spanish native speakers. Deakin's Spanish studies will help you develop a wide range of communication skills in Spanish, regardless of whether you have any previous experience in the language. Our sequential proficiency levels will take you from scratch to fluency or near fluency.

Sport journalism

Transform your passion into a career as a sport reporter. Deakin's sport journalism major takes you beyond the game to the broader business, and legal and ethical issues associated with sports. You'll combine practical journalistic and production skills across all news media platforms. Learn from teachers who are leaders and practitioners in their fields, while developing your professional network and portfolio.

Strategic advertising

Advertising is a dynamic and creative field of practice which provides a complementary study option for students seeking a professional outcome in the Bachelor of Arts. Work on client-driven projects to plan campaigns and produce advertisements for brand promotion across traditional and digital media. Combining practice and theory, strategic advertising builds your technical and communication skills so you can build a portfolio.

Visual arts and photography

Combine in-depth disciplinary training in visual art and photography practices and digital technologies alongside a sequence of open-ended studio-based studies encouraging cross-disciplinary and interdisciplinary thinking. Gain both the practical studio skills and adaptable critical thinking skills necessary to participate successfully in the art world and creative industries.

Visual communication design

Enter the dynamic world of professional design. Learn the tools, strategies and techniques required to be an adaptive, creative practitioner. From day one, you'll be mentored by established designers and industry leaders, learning the fundamental building blocks of design to translate ideas into smart design solutions addressing pressing global issues. Using the latest technologies, you'll work across industry sectors including digital and publishing, social media, mobile apps, the web, and immersive and interactive experiences.

NIKERI Institute

Deakin is committed to helping students from all backgrounds and locations achieve their dreams. That's why the National Indigenous Knowledges, Education, Research and Innovation (NIKERI) Institute provides flexibly structured courses to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students all across Australia. Our Bachelor of Arts course (page 8) is offered through Community Based Delivery – where community teaches community in a supported environment, through a mix of online learning and on-campus experiences.

Indigenous Studies

Deakin also prioritises Indigenous Knowledges and offers all students the chance to enrich their understandings of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples' ways of Valuing, Being, Knowing and Doing. These units promote co-contributions to positive reconciliation efforts alongside Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples.

Study the Bachelor of Arts (Psychology) and gain insight into why people think, feel and behave the way they do. At the same time, you will also open the door to a world of opportunity through your study in the arts. Learn the perfect mix of skills sought by employers by studying one degree, with exposure to two distinct areas of interest. Combining your passions in psychology and the arts can open doors and make you more employable once you graduate.

Professional recognition

All of the psychology courses offered at Deakin meet the requirements of the Psychology Board of Australia (PsyBA) and the Australian Psychological Society (APS), translating into excellent job and career opportunities for our graduates. Deakin's Bachelor of Arts (Psychology) is accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC).

Registration

For information on pathways to registration, see Deakin's 2024 Undergraduate Psychology booklet or visit deakin.edu.au/psychology.

Careers

Completing this degree will give you important skills valued by employers such as critical analysis and systematic thinking. With both cross-disciplinary and specialist knowledge, you'll have the ability to confidently enter a variety of fields including:

- creative arts
- education
- health and human services
- historical and cultural heritage
- human resources
- law enforcement
- media and communication
- not-for-profit aid
- politics and government
- public health
- social service
- youth work.

To take your career in psychology to the next level, you may opt to continue with further study, which can lead to registration as a psychologist. This will broaden your career opportunities, including specialist fields of psychology such as:

- clinical psychologist
- cognitive neuroscientist
- counsellor
- criminal psychologist
- educational and developmental psychologist
- family therapist
- forensic psychologist
- health and community psychologist
- organisational psychologist
- rehabilitation counsellor
- sport and exercise psychologist
- youth psychologist.

Put your skills into practice in the real world

At Deakin, you'll learn from real-world experiences through our unique partnerships, peer mentoring and transition-to-work activities, so you graduate with the confidence and skills that employers are seeking. For example, as a Bachelor of Arts (Psychology) student, you'll have the opportunity to gain industry experience in the Psychology at Work (Internship) and explore the principles of psychology in practice.

Combining passions in psychology and the arts can open up many doors, making you more employable in the future.

This course will equip you with an understanding of the major drivers of criminal behaviour, along with the industry-relevant skills to tackle what is quickly becoming a critical threat to society. You will gain expertise in securing data and data communications, as well as investigating and providing solutions to cybercrime.

Professional recognition

The Bachelor of Cyber Security is professionally accredited with the Australian Computer Society (ACS).

You will be able to undertake four industry certifications as part of your cyber security degree for no additional cost.

Certifications include:

- Certified Ethical Hacker (CEH)
- Certified Secure Programmer (ECSPP)
- Computer Hacking Forensic Investigator (CHFI)
- Cybersecurity Fundamentals (CSX).

These industry certifications are recognised globally and prove your competence and proficiency in these highly skilled cyber security areas.

Combined courses

A combined course lets you pursue complementary studies in both degrees while exploring particular areas of interest to you. For example, combining an arts degree with a law degree enhances your understanding of the context in which the law operates. You can study areas such as history, sociology, philosophy, politics or literature in addition to law studies. Combined courses also let you complete both courses in as little as four or five years, which is quicker than completing one degree followed by the other.

- 1 The 2024 indicative full degree domestic/Commonwealth Supported Place (CSP) fees and the indicative annual international fees are based on a typical enrolment of two trimesters of full-time study, or 8 credit points, unless otherwise indicated, and should be used as a guide only. Find out more at deakin.edu.au/fees.
- 2 Visit our course webpage for full details including pre-course and entry requirements, as well as non-Year 12 applicant categories and associated admission requirements, unit selection options and campus and trimester availability for domestic and international students, and more.
- 3 This course is also available at the National Indigenous Knowledges, Education, Research and Innovation (NIKERI) Institute. Find out more at deakin.edu.au/nikeri.
- 4 International student entry requirements can be found at: deakin.edu.au/international-students.
- 5 This course is not available to international students.
- 6 PT means part time.
- 7 To undertake this diploma with another degree, applicants must first apply through VTAC for a place in the degree and, once enrolled, then apply with the faculty for the diploma.
- 8 Trimester 2 intake is available only for students with no prior language study.
- 9 Delivery of this course is across multiple campuses; see course webpage for further details.
- 10 Students must have completed 24 credit points of study successfully and achieved a Weighted Average Mark (WAM) of 60 to continue through to the Master of International Relations. Students not having fulfilled this requirement are eligible to graduate with the Bachelor of Arts as an alternative exit.
- 11 Students applying to all initial teacher education courses are required to sit the Casper test, a non-academic assessment. Find out more at deakin.edu.au/casper.
