News

In this Edition

We hope that you had a fantastic break and a chance to rest and refresh before the upcoming term 2 study period.

During the school holidays we ran our Deakin Campus Tours at each of our four campuses. It was so great to see the eager faces of students at our campuses after so long.

We would like to express our gratitude to each of you who promoted these events to your students and we are looking forward to running them again in both the June/July and September school holidays. More information about these events will be sent to you in the coming weeks.

This edition of Careers Network News includes information about our upcoming Discover Deakin course information webinars. We hope that your students can attend some of these sessions, so they are well-informed about their future study options.

We thank you for your ongoing support and look forward to working with you throughout this term.

Professional Resilience: Building Skills to Thrive

Deakin University offers a free massive open online course (MOOC) that equips learners with the ability to better manage stress through the development of practical resilience skills, strategies and exercises.

During this course students will be invited to craft a personal approach to resiliency based on a wide survey of evidence-based strategies. Students will discover the importance of resiliency for building mental health and wellbeing in a rapidly changing world.

The Professional Resiliency Course invites secondary students to consider what they might be able to do right now that could help support them and their communities into the future. This is a rare opportunity for senior secondary students to study resilience early in their working lives.

For more information about this free course please visit futurelearn.com/courses/professional-resilience.
