See the world in a different light

From anthropology and philosophy to criminology and international studies, apply your natural curiosity and creative instincts to pursue a career in humanities, social sciences and languages.

Gain skills that are transferable across all industries, hands-on workplace experience and valuable international study experiences that prepare you for an exciting career.

Your future in arts, humanities and social sciences

Practical, hands-on learning
Study courses that are developed and reviewed with industry and professional input, providing excellent career outcomes. You’ll also access various work experience and networking opportunities with several high-profile organisations, including Save the Children, and other NGOs.

Work experience can make all the difference when you graduate and apply for jobs. You can also gain work experience and credit towards your degree through work integrated learning. The arts and education work integrated learning experts offer endless opportunities to intern, mentor, travel and volunteer.

Travel across the globe
Study overseas as part of your degree, pursuing opportunities like:
• exchanges
• study abroad programs
• study tours
• international volunteering opportunities.

You could find yourself in the United States learning about America’s role in the international political system and the role of the United Nations – or in Tibet experiencing an intensive introduction to Buddhist philosophy and hermeneutics. The benefits of an international study experience are limitless. deakin.edu.au/overseas-study

Enjoy a world-class education
A range of arts subjects at Deakin are ranked in the top 1% of university subjects in the world, including:
• philosophy
• religious studies
• politics and international relations
• sociology
• arts and Humanities
• social sciences and management.

This is according to the prestigious QS World University Rankings (2019) which is an annual university ranking and is one of the most influential and widely observed international university rankings.
Your future in arts, humanities and social sciences

Study when and where you want
Study arts, humanities and social sciences in Geelong, Melbourne or join the thousands of students currently studying online at Deakin’s Cloud Campus. You’ll learn with the same top teachers as on-campus students, with the ultimate flexibility to study anywhere, anytime.

Explore interesting and complementary areas
Open up a world of career options by studying an arts degree. There’s plenty of flexibility within the arts so you can pursue your interests through various specialisations and work placements.
You can also explore combined degrees to complete both courses in as little as four years. For example, combine politics and policy studies with nutrition, for a career in health policy. A combined degree is quicker than studying one degree, followed by another.

Learn from leaders in their fields
Our teaching staff are passionate professionals, recognised as innovators in their fields, which means you’ll learn from the very best. Our academic staff are active in the media and conduct important research, making a positive impact in Australia and around the world.

#1 university in Victoria for student satisfaction
Year on year, our students are the most satisfied students of all Victorian universities. We’ve ranked this highly for the past nine years, with students being particularly happy with our:
- teaching
- learning resources
- student support
- skills development
- learner engagement.

#1 university for skills development
Gain a competitive edge in the workplace with real-world expertise and practical skills. Deakin’s ranked the #1 university for skills development in Victoria, which means you’ll graduate highly skilled, work-ready and in-demand from employers.

Learn a language and expand your world
Study the world’s most strategically important languages – Arabic, Chinese, Indonesian and Spanish. You’ll have fun learning a language, plus you’ll gain opportunities with employers overseas who value your strong language skills and cultural knowledge.

In my seminars at Deakin, I’ve been exposed to industry professionals who collaborate with us to develop our writing. The growth and experience I’ve gained as a writing student has made the idea of getting published while still at university a tangible goal.

Disciplines

Take a look through our disciplines (also known as study areas) to choose your area of expertise. Knowing which discipline you’re interested in helps career advisers find the best course for your interests. Corresponding courses are featured in the following pages, so you can learn more about what you’ll study, work experience opportunities and the types of careers you could pursue.

When you choose a course, you can then pick which discipline to specialise in within that course. Visit deakin.edu.au/academic-programs for detailed discipline and course information, including a description of the units within each degree.

Anthropology
What does it mean to be human? Anthropologists ask and strive to answer this question by studying humanity in the broadest sense. We analyse the lives of people in a range of societies and gain insights into the science behind human existence to understand how we relate to our environments. This allows us to understand how to work with people in diverse and international settings.

Arabic
Australia’s trade with the Middle East has more than doubled in the past decade, making it an increasingly important region with broad strategic, economic, religious and cultural influence. Develop Arabic language fluency, and enhance it through an understanding of Middle Eastern history, culture and society.

Arabic at Deakin is a national award-winning language program, with in-country language programs available to students.

Buddhist studies
Gain a multi-dimensional understanding of Buddhist cultures, philosophies and practices, in traditional settings and contemporary interpretations. Develop knowledge of the major Buddhist traditions and learn how core Buddhist practices and ideas – such as mindfulness meditation – are adapted in contemporary western settings and impact our ideas of personal development and public issues in modern social life.

Chinese
Add an international aspect to your degree to further your career opportunities. China is Australia’s biggest trading partner and Standard Chinese, commonly known as Mandarin Chinese, is a major language of the world. It’s the official language in the People’s Republic of China, Taiwan and Singapore and widely used in community groups in Hong Kong, South-East Asia, North America and Australia. Chinese is also one of the five official languages of the United Nations.

Criminology
Investigate how crime can be minimised or prevented by harnessing the insight of disciplines like psychology and history. You’ll examine why some behaviours are defined as criminal and why certain people may become criminals. Criminologists help law enforcers apprehend criminals more efficiently, discovering their motives to reduce the likelihood of similar crimes occurring.

Deakin has one of the few dedicated criminology courses in Australia, offering specialised study for students seeking a career in the criminal justice system. Study topics that you won’t be able to elsewhere – such as security, surveillance, terrorism and policing.

Gender and sexuality studies
Gender and sexuality play important roles in people’s lives and society. Understand this complexity through Deakin’s structured interdisciplinary program, which draws on the creative arts, cultural studies, history, sociology and more.

Geography and society
Are you interested in understanding key geographical concepts and techniques to analyse and solve field-based problems? Geography and society at Deakin blends social theory and research with political practice to examine social and spatial structures, as well as policy interventions to address related problems. You’ll explore why space, location and mobility matters in the constitution of society and the built environment, and learn how to connect social theory to practice and policy interventions.

History
Understand the making of the modern world. Our history units cover themes from colonialism and war to gender and social change, and deal with content from Australia and around the world. You’ll be taught by Deakin’s renowned historians, who are at the forefront of bringing history into public conversations.

Indonesian
Develop communication skills in Bahasa Indonesia, and understand Indonesian culture, history and society. With more than 23 million first-language Indonesian speakers (140 million people speak Indonesian as a second language) and Indonesia being Australia’s closest Asian neighbour, the region is increasingly important to Australia economically, politically and culturally. In-country language programs are available to students undertaking a major in Indonesian, giving you the opportunity to travel overseas and try out your language skills with native speakers.

International politics
Explore the global system of states and the major challenges of the international system. Understand contemporary issues such as human rights, refugees and asylum seekers, terrorism, war, humanitarian responses and development, capitalism, power, diplomacy and the role of the United Nations, the politics of the United States, and the issues facing the Middle East.

International relations
Enhance your understanding of the key political dynamics of our time. International relations encompasses the study of policy-related dynamics such as diplomacy, foreign policy and global governance, as well as theoretical dynamics relating to questions of order, justice and resistance in world politics. It also considers questions relating to the changing nature of world politics, evident in emerging forms of regionalism and globalisation.

Islamic studies
Islam is one of the three major Abrahamic faiths and is the world’s fastest growing religion, predicted to overtake Christianity as the preeminent creed in the next 50 years. Both Islam and Muslims are often in the media and a major focus of politics at both the state and federal level – but discussions are subject to inaccuracies and misinformation. This study area will help you understand Islam through theoretical and textual analysis, while simultaneously analysing popular culture and current affairs.

Disciplines

Language and culture studies
Learn the world’s most strategically important languages – Arabic, Chinese and Indonesian – with exciting overseas language study tour opportunities available as part of your degree. Learning a language is not only fun – it gives you an insight into different cultures, develops your adaptability and communication skills, and makes you more employable.

Middle East studies
Deakin offers the only major in Middle East studies in Australia, so we’re best placed to give you a comprehensive understanding of the events and issues shaping the region. With an emphasis on both historical and contemporary issues relevant to the analysis of the Middle East, you’ll explore the region’s position in the international system.

Philosophy
What is philosophy? It literally translates as the ‘love of wisdom’. Philosophy asks some of the most fundamental questions that you’ll face in your life. Who or what are you? What do you know, and how do you know what you know? If you value questions as well as answers, philosophy is for you. Join us and investigate topics such as reality, existence, knowledge, values and language.

Politics and policy studies
Enhance your understanding of the big issues in the world today, and develop the skills to make a difference in your lifetime. You’ll investigate the challenges posed to Australia and the world by climate change; asylum seekers and refugee; development; inequality; political parties and new social movements. Examine the ideas behind the policy and the rhetoric – and look globally for different solutions; investigate how policy lessons are learned; and assess the impact on domestic and global politics.

Professional experience and practice
We live in a rapidly changing world on the cusp of an employment revolution. While many of the jobs of today won’t exist in the future, many of the jobs of the future don’t yet exist today. How, then, can you best prepare for a career path that remains largely unknown? This study area offers you real-world learning experiences and is designed to advance your employment outcomes.

Religious studies
Understanding religion has seldom been as important as it is today. There is increasing dialogue among the greater religions of the world, but there is also increasing misunderstanding of religious traditions – one’s own and other people’s. This is a multidisciplinary major that looks at religion from diverse viewpoints, with units from the disciplines of anthropology, philosophy, sociology, literary and cultural studies, and others. It also offers the possibility of focusing on particular religious traditions.

Sociology
Study society, social groups and social relations. Thinking sociologically lets you critically understand the processes that shape the society we live in and the cultures within it. As a sociology student, you’ll explore key aspects of everyday life including ethnicity, religion, gender, migration, consumerism, globalisation, deviance, health, youth culture and intimate relationships. Learn how to carry out research projects using both qualitative and quantitative techniques; we’re the only social science discipline in the faculty that teaches these mixed methods.

Sport and society
Sport’s prominent role in society can be traced back to the ancient Olympics in Greece more than 2700 years ago. Today, sport enjoys ever-increasing popularity and influence — with a profound impact on society from cultural, social, educational, political and economic perspectives. Explore key issues surrounding sport’s role — past and present — in the modern world in a structured and meaningful way. Through an interdisciplinary approach, you’ll discover a rich and diverse blend of units from history, sociology, education, business and health.

Sustainability and society
Sustainability is an increasingly important factor in private and public sectors, guiding behaviour and decision-making. With increasing social demand for a sustainable future, managing our environmental and social expectations is an increasingly difficult task, discussed and debated through this major.

Take your studies beyond the classroom
Study a Bachelor of Arts and take part in a Work Integrated Learning (WIL) experience overseas. Choose from our:

• Middle East Study Tour
• Buddhist Studies in India Tour
• Japanese Immersion Program
• US Study Tour (offered every other year).
• Professional internship options, currently available in Malaysia and Sri Lanka.

Pathways

Are you interested in studying at university but unsure whether you’ll meet the entry requirements for a bachelor degree? If so, look no further than Deakin’s Associate Degree of Arts. We’ve designed this course to offer students a supported learning environment and a pathway into Deakin’s Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Criminology.

Associate Degree of Arts

University can be a challenge, which is why we’ve designed a course that offers you a supported learning environment and a guaranteed pathway into Deakin’s Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Criminology. The Associate Degree of Arts teaches you the learning skills you need to be successful at university, including communication, digital literacy, critical thinking and teamwork skills. From your first trimester, you’ll also complete units from your target degree (depending on which stream you choose).

Careers

Upon graduation from the Associate Degree of Arts, you’ll have the opportunity to continue studying or use this degree as a standalone qualification. You’ll have guaranteed entry into our Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Criminology depending on which specialisation you take, plus receive credit that could put you straight into your second year. You’ll also have the opportunity to apply to transition into other bachelor degrees, including communication, design, psychology, health science, nursing, commerce, management or science.

An associate degree equips you with the skills to succeed in both university and your career.

Institute of Koorie Education

The Institute of Koorie Education provides flexibly-structured Deakin courses to Indigenous Australian students. Our Bachelor of Arts (page B) course is offered through Community Based Delivery – a mix of on-campus intensives and cloud-based learning at home. This means students can access higher education while maintaining their work, community and family commitments.

Indigenous Studies

All Deakin students can enrol in Indigenous Studies units through the Institute of Koorie Education. These units give you a comprehensive and engaging exploration of the history, culture and identity of Australia’s First Nation’s People. Taken as an elective in any course, these units promote diversity and cultural understanding and help to build a well-rounded degree. They’re also valued for their transferable knowledge and the way they build vitals communications skills.

deakin.edu.au/ike

1 This course is also available at the Institute of Koorie Education. Find out more at deakin.edu.au/ike.
2 Available as a minor (4 credit point) unit sequence only.
3 A full major sequence in Chinese is not available at the Cloud Campus.
4 Offered to Geelong Waurn Ponds Campus students by combination of online and campus-based learning.
5 This course structure should be used as a guide only and advice should be sought when selecting units.
6 Academic Integrity (AAI018) is a compulsory 0-credit-point unit that you must undertake as part of this course.
Courses

A Diploma of Language can be studied alongside your bachelor degree. Choose from Arabic, Chinese, Indonesian and Spanish.

Diploma of Arabic

The Arab countries of the Middle East and North Africa form an area of critical global importance, having broad strategic, economic, religious and cultural influence. The Middle East comprises the fourth largest trading block among Australia’s overseas trading partners, with the total value of Australia’s trade with the Middle East more than doubling in the last decade. Develop communication skills in modern standard Arabic and enhance your language fluency through contextual knowledge of Middle Eastern history, culture and society.

Diploma of Chinese

Whether you’re brushing up or starting from scratch with a whole new language, Deakin’s Diploma of Chinese is designed to sharpen your language skills and deepen your cultural understanding. It’s a great complement to your studies in any discipline, plus you’ll gain a global perspective and boost your employability.

Diploma of Indonesian

Learn communication skills in Bahasa Indonesia while gaining an understanding of Indonesia’s culture, history and society. Indonesia is Australia’s closest Asian neighbour and the region is increasingly important to Australia economically, politically and culturally.

Diploma of Spanish

Deakin’s Diploma of Spanish is a great complement to studies in any discipline, plus you’ll gain a global perspective and boost your employability. Through this course, you’ll gain fluency in Spanish by developing an understanding of grammatical structures and lexical fields through a communicative approach, and by developing skills through guided activities that target listening, speaking, reading and writing competencies.

Give your bachelor degree a language diploma add-on

By studying a language alongside your degree, you’ll gain linguistic skills, as well as essential cultural, historical and social perspectives, giving you a leading edge in a range of exciting and challenging careers. Language skills in Arabic, Chinese (Mandarin), Indonesian and Spanish are all strategic, in terms of Australia’s interests and are important in diplomacy, defence, security, commerce and trade-related fields.

Why study a language?

- Set yourself up to live and work in another culture.
- Boost your global career aspirations, and develop language and cultural understanding.
- Combine work, study and travel.
- Get a unique edge in a competitive job market.
- Build multitasking and decision-making skills.
- Improve your memory.
- Refine your first language and communication skills in general.
- Develop your brain function.

The course has met my expectations and allowed me to develop personally, academically and professionally. The range of opportunities – particularly overseas study and internships – has been a highlight of my time at Deakin.

Bachelor of Criminology/Bachelor of Cyber Security
Deakin’s Bachelor of Criminology/Bachelor of Cyber Security is the only degree of its kind in Australia. You’ll become equipped with key skills in securing data and data communications, as well as investigating and providing solutions to cyber crime. Understand the inner workings of criminal behaviour while developing a skill set to take on what’s quickly becoming the number one criminal threat to society in cyber crime.

Professional recognition
The Bachelor of Cyber Security is professionally accredited with the Australian Computer Society (ACS). You will be able to undertake four industry certifications as part of your cyber security degree for no additional cost. Certifications include:

1. Certified Information Systems Security Professional (CISSP)
2. Certified Ethical Hacker (CEH)
3. Certified Security Analyst (CSSA)
4. Certified Information Systems Security Professional (CISSP)
5. Certified Ethical Hacker (CEH)
6. Certified Security Analyst (CSSA)

These industry certifications are recognised globally and prove your competence and proficiency in these highly skilled cyber security areas.

Certifications include:

1. Cybersecurity Fundamentals (CSX)
2. Computer Hacking Forensic Investigator (CHFI)
3. Certified Ethical Hacker (CEH)
4. Certified Security Analyst (CSSA)

Bachelor of Criminology/Bachelor of Laws
Deakin’s Bachelor of Criminology/Bachelor of Laws gives you a broad understanding of all major legal areas. You’ll explore the inner workings and impacts of criminal behaviour and various responses to it – from environmental crime to terrorism – and how to use this understanding when making decisions within the criminal justice system.

Professional recognition
Upon finishing your degree, you’ll have satisfied the university component of becoming an Australian lawyer set by the Victorian Legal Admissions Board (VLAB). In addition to completing an approved LLB degree, you’ll be required to work for one year as a legal trainee, or to undertake a practical legal training (PLT) course. Matched with criminology, you’ll have a broader understanding of the criminal justice system than most other graduates, making you a highly desirable candidate when entering the legal sector.

Bachelor of Criminology/Bachelor of Psychological Science

Combining Deakin’s Bachelor of Criminology/Bachelor of Psychological Science will make you rethink what we perceive as ‘crime’ and the social justice and rehabilitation that goes along with it. Offering you an accredited pathway in psychology, you’ll graduate ready to enter the workforce or continue your study in the pursuit of becoming a fully qualified psychologist.

Professional recognition
All of the psychology courses offered at Deakin meet the requirements of the Psychology Board of Australia (PBA) and the Australian Psychological Society (APS), translating into excellent job and career opportunities for our graduates. Upon graduation of this degree, you’ll have gained a three-year undergraduate psychology sequence that is accredited by the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council (APAC) and recognised for registration purposes by the PBA, enabling you to undertake additional study in pursuit of provisional registration.

Bachelor of Health Sciences/Bachelor of Arts

Build a degree tailored to your interests with a Bachelor of Health Sciences/Bachelor of Arts. This flexible degree will allow you to major in fields from both health sciences and arts, tapping into unique course combinations and career opportunities. You can choose your course structure to hone in on whichever niche reflects your individual passions.

 Bachelor of Health Sciences/Bachelor of Arts

Bachelor of Forensic Science/Bachelor of Criminology

Become a crime scene expert by studying the Bachelor of Forensic Science/Bachelor of Criminology, a combined course that trains you to piece together the many facets of crime, from understanding offender motives to unlocking hidden details in evidence.

Professional recognition
The Bachelor of Forensic Science is professionally accredited by the Chartered Society of Forensic Sciences (CSFS).

Bachelor of International Studies/Bachelor of Commerce

Gain a competitive business foundation with global application. Through Deakin’s Bachelor of International Studies/Bachelor of Commerce, you’ll develop your understanding about the international forces shaping government, business and communities, and gain skills to analyse and interpret these forces. You’ll learn about commerce, like accounting, marketing and law, and gain insights through valuable overseas study experiences.

Professional recognition
Students who complete the accounting major sequence are eligible to apply for:
• the CA Program of the Chartered Accountants Australia and New Zealand (CA ANZ)
• Associate membership of the CPA Program
• IPA Program of the Institute of Public Accountants (IPA)
• Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA).

Students who complete the marketing major sequence are eligible for a one-year credit reduction from the five years needed to become a Certified Practising Marketer by the Australian Marketing Institute (AMI).

All students who complete the financial planning major sequence will satisfy the education standards prescribed by the Financial Adviser Standards and Ethics Authority (FASEA) to be able to provide financial advice in Australia, and be eligible for entry into the certification programs of the professional financial planning associations – the CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER® Certification Program offered by the Financial Planning Association of Australia (FPA), as well as the Fellow Chartered Financial Practitioner designation offered by the Association of Financial Advisers (FPA).

Bachelor of Laws/Bachelor of International Studies

Forge an international legal career and develop competitive skills with cross-cultural relevance in Deakin’s Bachelor of Laws/Bachelor of International Studies. You’ll learn about and analyse the forces shaping Australia, investigate the internationalisation of the law, and apply it all at a global level through Deakin’s overseas study experiences.

Professional recognition
The Bachelor of Laws/Bachelor of International Studies fulfills the academic requirements to practice as an Australian lawyer, as set by the Victorian Legal Admissions Board (VLAB).

Bachelor of Arts/Master of Teaching (Secondary)7

Combine your passion for the arts with a desire to inspire the generations of tomorrow, with a Bachelor of Arts/Master of Teaching (Secondary) at Deakin. Our school-based learning programs and teaching practicums ensure you’re ready to teach today and into the future.

Professional recognition
